Goebbels Says Roosevelt Remark on War 'Impertinence'

Propaganda Paper Says President's Statement Coarse

British Undertake Efforts to Protect Trade Routes to Oriental Possessions of Empire

Daladier's Edict

French Premier Expected to Make Declaration on Nation's Stand

(By The Associated Press)

Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' newspaper Der Angriff today characterized as "impertinence" President Roosevelt's "I'll be back in the fall if we don't have war" farewell to friends in Warm Springs, Ga., Sunday.

The newspaper said the President's remark was "coarse barking up the wrong tree and impertinence."

The British government undertook today new efforts to protect Mediterranean trade routes to empire possessions of the orient.

The general appearance of warlike tension throughout the world and especially the Italian conquest of Albania spurred the British action.

Announcement Tomorrow

London informants said Prime Minister Chamberlain would announce before the House of Commons tomorrow that Britain would consider as an "unfriendly act" any aggression in the eastern Mediterranean, and particularly aggression against Greece and Turkey.

The French government decided Premier Daladier also would make a declaration on France's position tomorrow at almost the same time Chamberlain is expected to be speaking in London. The Paris cabinet gave final formal approval to drastic decrees for strengthening national defense—decrees which already were being put into operation.

Promise Sought

A reason for the reservation, London informants said, was that Chamberlain hoped Italy would guarantee that, having taken Albania, the Mediterranean status quo would be kept. The Italian government yesterday sent a note of assurance to Greece.

Britain hoped to make the pledge to Greece and Turkey the basis of a wider Balkan alliance to be brought into the British-French-Polish entente which was organized last year after Germany broke up Czecho-Slovakia last month.

The armies of the powers, meanwhile, were brought to new strength—that of Italy to perhaps 1,200,000 men, that of France to between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 men.

The French Mediterranean fleet was on a secret cruise. The British Mediterranean fleet kept watch at Malta, near Italian Sicily and Greek Corfu.

An assembly met in Tirana, meanwhile, to set up a Fascist regime in Albania when King Zog fled after the Italian military occupation. Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano arrived by

No Specific Report Comes From Hospital Except Crisis Is Passed

Larissa, Greece, April 12 (AP)—Queen Geraldine of Albania was reported today to have passed the crisis of her dangerous illness caused by her flight before Italian invaders two days after the birth of her son.

Specific information was withheld at the little hospital to which she was removed from a private villa yesterday when her condition became serious. Some reports said she was suffering from puerperal fever.

The dethroned king, Zog I, made continual visits to the hospital. He was guarded from questioners.

The week-old prince, Skander, was said to be in good health.

Board of Health Asks Residents Be Vaccinated

With the recent outbreak of three cases of smallpox at Colonie in Albany county, Kingston's Board of Health at its monthly meeting Tuesday evening unanimously went on record as favoring the vaccination of every adult and child in the city who had not been vaccinated.

In expressing the sentiment of the health board, Mayor C. J. Heiselman, who presided at the meeting, urged that every resident of the city who has not been vaccinated attend the free clinic Tuesday afternoon in the health board rooms.

Weekly Clinic

This clinic which is being held weekly between the hours of 3 and 4 o'clock is well attended. Parents bring their children to have them immunized against diphtheria, and when requested, the child is vaccinated.

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, in reply to a question by the mayor, stated that he would have a large supply of vaccine on hand at the clinic, and would be ready to vaccinate all who attended.

Attention was also called to the figures given in the last issue of Health News, issued by the state health department, to the effect that last year only 55 per cent of children under five years of age in Kingston had been immunized against diphtheria.

The health news also stated that in Newburgh the percentage was 78.

Dr. Sanford said that since weekly clinics for the immunization of children against diphtheria had been inaugurated in Kingston some years ago that only one case of diphtheria had been reported in over five years here.

The health officer also called attention to the fact that in the smallpox outbreak in Albany county the six-year-old son of the stricken gas station attendant had been immunized by being vaccinated and did not contract the disease.

Births and Deaths

The report of the registrar of vital statistics for the month of March showed 58 births and 57 deaths reported in the city that month, as compared with 73 births and 68 deaths in March of last year.

That last month was more free of communicable diseases than March of last year was shown by the reportable disease report which follows:

	1939	1938
German Measles	1	3
Scarlet Fever	23	76
Chickenpox	9	29
Whooping Cough	3	10
Pneumonia	14	31
Measles	0	26
Vincent's Angina	0	9
Diphtheria	0	7
Amebic Dysentery	0	1

The committee on revising the health code of the city reported progress and expected shortly to hold another meeting when the work of drafting the new code would be completed and made ready for submission to the entire board.

Milk Problem

The milk committee of the board is also planning to meet shortly and one of the questions to be taken up is whether or not only pasteurized milk is to be sold in the city.

At the present time the milk code permits the sale of certified raw milk.

Bills were read and audited and the board then adjourned.

Plan Frustrated

Tokyo, April 12 (AP)—The war ministry disclosed that western Japan had been under air raid control, ended only today, because it was learned that Chinese airmen planned to bomb the island of Kyushu as part of an "April offensive." The war ministry said Japanese raids on Chinese air bases had frustrated the plan.

Blossom Cavalcade Promises Several Divisions in Line

Tentative Plans Call for Floats, Youth Groups and Competition for Silver Trophy

If the spirit of optimism and enthusiasm displayed at the meeting of the parade committee of the Apple Blossom Festival, held at the Governor Clinton Hotel last night, prevails throughout the city and county, the projected parade on May 6 will be a real display.

Tentative plans call for a parade composed of some half a dozen divisions. These would include an honor guard of horsemen, hand-somely decorated floats representing communities and organizations throughout the county, another division representing commercial interests of the county, a young group section to include the 4-H clubs, Boy and Girl Scouts and other organizations, a National Guard division, and possible participation by fire companies with their apparatus and perhaps a display of modern machinery, trucks and the like by municipalities of the county.

The various suggestions were outlined by Albert Kurtz, executive secretary of the council, at the request of John J. Miller, chairman of the parade committee, and furnished the basis for a proposed discussion on the part of committee members.

Band Competition

A proposition that was given extensive consideration was that to have the various high school bands of the county participate in the parade and compete for a prize. This was further emphasized when Mayor C. J. Heiselman, a late arrival at the meeting, stated that he would offer a silver cup for the band that should be awarded first place. There was approval of a plan to take the winning band to the World's Fair for a day, but apparently that will have to be discarded, as regents examinations begin on Monday, June 19, which is Ulster county day at the Fair.

It was pretty definitely decided to make a motorized parade of the affair, the parade forming on Washington, Hurley and Lucas avenues and then going down Broadway, at least as far as the Delaware avenue intersection and possibly further.

It was stated that the police and fire departments would extend full cooperation, with Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy acting as grand marshal of the parade. Mayor Heiselman also told the committee that he would endeavor to have the best possible march placed in the parade.

Names Committees

Chairman Miller named several committees to act as sub-committees in charge of the different divisions of the parade. A committee composed of representatives from the various communities will be charged with arousing interest in their localities and securing the widest possible participation in the parade, the entering of floats, cooperation of the firemen and other organizations, etc.

City Wage Earners Increase

United States Department Lists 526 More Folk Employed by Manufacturing Concerns Over Two-Year Period—Albany Declines

An increase of 526 in the number of Kingston wage earners employed by manufacturing concerns from 1935 to 1937 was reported today by the United States Commerce Department, according to the Associated Press.

The boost locally was listed in a report of the commerce department on its biennial census of manufacturers for 1937 which showed generally improved business conditions in the state.

Kingston wage earners, according to the report, went from 2,541 to 2,977 and the wages increased from $1,938,086 to $2,412,062.

The department reported an increase in the number of wage earners, the volume of wages and the value of manufactured products in most of the cities covered by the census.

Of the larger upstate cities, only Albany reported a decline in industrial activity from 1935 to 1937. The department reported the average number of wage earners in the state capital dropped from 7,307 in 1935 to 5,215 in 1937 and the volume of wages from $8,890,730 to $6,009,338.

The number of wage earners in New York city establishments increased from 485,144 to 506,208, the volume of wages from $58,298,673 to $69,750,581 and the value of its production from $3,666,218,239 to $3,962,292,660.

In the entire state the average number of wage earners increased from 878,592 to 995,658, the volume of wages from $991,677,618 to $1,236,048,186 and the value of manufactured products from $5,963,850,154 to $7,314,446,524.

Reports on cities included: Kingston—Wage earners, 2,451 to 2,977; wages $1,938,086 to $2,412,062; production value, $6,915,316 to $10,972,314.

Mount Vernon—Wage earners, 2,260 to 2,494; wages, $2,371,971 to $3,020,907; production value, $7,888,908 to $10,120,250.

New Rochelle—Wage earners, 335 to 626; wages $431,174 to $617,468; production value, $1,970,281 to $2,854,780.

Ossining—Wage earners, 249 to 324; wages, $304,011 to $442,621; production value, $1,788,307 to $2,816,978.

Port Chester—Wage earners, 1,884 to 2,323; wages, $1,907,734 to $2,266,671; production value, $8,674,672 to $12,021,204.

Poughkeepsie—Wage earners, 4,439 to 4,692; wages, $4,220,022 to $4,743,763; production value, $20,017,978 to $25,042,259.

Rockville Center—Wage earners (decrease) 89 to 84; wages $130,059 to $248,705; production value, $648,183 to $819,168.

Syracuse—Wage earners, 16,322 to 19,836; wages, $17,612,479 to $25,673,949; production value, $78,742,672 to $107,434,697.

White Plains—Wage earners, 567 to 662; wages, $634,305 to $960,594; production value, $2,960,671 to $4,920,407.

Yonkers—Wage earners, 7,853 to 9,706; wages, $8,274,266 to $10,728,684; production value, $32,608,803 to $51,161,035.

Kansas City, April 12 (AP)—The federal government today smashed a narcotic ring with coast-to-coast ramifications, radiating out of Kansas City where, a government official said, the narcotic situation is "unbelievable."

H. J. Anslinger, U. S. commissioner of narcotics, who came here from Washington to head the roundup, announced arrests of 13 suspects in Kansas City, New York, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Among them was a uniformed patrolman of the Kansas City police department, whose control by Boss Tom Pendergast Democratic organization is under fire by Gov. Lloyd Stark, a Democrat.

Stark has charged the police department is so politically dominated that it actually protects the underworld here.

Anslinger, who termed Kansas City the "capital of narcotics distribution" throughout the mid-west, estimated 500,000 grains or 1,000,000 doses of narcotics were seized in raids or purchased by under-cover agents of the narcotics bureau, a division of the treasury department.

The men under arrest in New York are Dominick (Tony) Bartolin and Charles Cassessa.

Testifying last night in Jefferson City at a legislative committee hearing on the police bill, Walter S. Bliss, immigration inspector, said the narcotics situation in Kansas City is "unbelievable."

"The police department is making no effort to assist in its control," he added.

There were three counts in the indictment on which the five men went to trial. Torrio stood liable to serve 12 years besides paying a fine of $30,000.

Torrio Sentenced To Federal Prison For Tax Evasion

Judge Clancy Pronounces Two and One-Half Year Term for Notorious Loop Racketeer

New York, April 12 (AP)—John Torrio, former notorious Chicago underworld leader, was sentenced today to serve two and a half years in federal prison for income tax evasion. Judge John W. Clancy first sentenced Torrio to three years but reduced it by six months at the request of the U. S. attorney.

No Emotion

Torrio's face showed no emotion when he heard the original sentence. After two co-defendants were sentenced, Judge Clancy looked down from the bench and said:

"I'll change that sentence for Torrio and follow the recommendation of the United States attorney. Make it two and one half years on the first count, five years on the second and two on the third count, with sentences suspended on the second and third counts and probation for 10 years."

Torrio pleaded guilty Monday to an indictment charging he evaded payment of $86,000 in income taxes.

Before Torrio, a former crony of Al Capone in the early and profitable days of prohibition, was sentenced, his counsel, Max D. Steiner, made a 45-minute plea for leniency.

During the course of what was virtually a summation of the evidence adduced against his bald little client, Steiner announced that the $100,000 cash bail which Torrio posted when he was arrested in 1936 had been conceded to the government.

Co-Defendants Sentenced

Two of Torrio's co-defendants, William Slockbower, his brother-in-law, and James La Penna, an associate of Torrio's bootlegging days, were also sentenced. They changed their pleas Monday, following Torrio's example.

Slockbower was given a suspended sentence of one year and a day, and placed on probation for a year. La Penna was given nine months and placed on probation for five years.

When Torrio and the others pleaded guilty, two other defendants, Louis La Cava and John D'Agostino, were granted mistrials.

There were three counts in the indictment on which the five men went to trial. Torrio stood liable to serve 12 years besides paying a fine of $30,000.

Thumbs Air Ride

Manteo, N. C., April 12 (AP)—Sheriff Victor Meekins was 40 miles out in the sand dunes when his car broke down. Not another automobile was in sight. The sheriff looked into the air. A red monoplane came zooming along. Up went the sheriff's hand, its thumb pointed in collegiate fashion. Down came the plane. The pilot brought Meekins to Roanoke Island.

BPW Pondering What to Do With Meade St. House

The problem of what to do in the case of a house said to be projecting some 20 feet into the highway on Meade street, at East Chester street, erection of signs over the streets, and the difficulties encountered in carrying on the emergency street patching program, owing to the cold, rainy weather, were some of the subjects discussed at the monthly meeting of the Board of Public Works on Tuesday afternoon.

The problem of the house came up when a petition was read from residents of Meade street congratulating the board on the plans for improving the street, but objecting to the "narrowing up of the street at the entrance to East Chester street by reason of Mr. Kennedy's house projecting about 20 feet into the street."

On the Street

In order to make the street of equal width for its entire length it will be necessary to order the Kennedy house moved back off the street.

After some discussion it was decided to refer the matter to City Engineer James G. Norton to look up the deed to the street and also the street maps on file in his office to ascertain the street lines and the width of the street when it was originally laid out.

Just what action will be taken toward ordering the house moved back out of the street line will depend on the report of the investigation to be made by the city engineer.

Petition for Sewer

Residents of Albany avenue, between Broadway and East St. James street, filed a petition with the board asking that a sanitary sewer be constructed in that portion of the street; the work to be done as a WPA project.

It was reported that there is no sanitary sewer in that part of Albany avenue.

City Engineer Norton was directed to prepare plans for the proposed sewer and submit it as a WPA project as petitioned.

"Stinging for Board"

"The board certainly got a fine stinging," remarked Mayor C. J. Heiselman, who presided at the meeting, in making a report to the board members of the action taken in advertising the park concessions in Hartsbrouck and Forsyth Parks to public bidding.

The mayor said that the cost of running the legal notice of the request for bids on the park concessions in the newspapers amounted to $90.35, and that only two bids were submitted, totalling $35.

For that reason the bids were rejected, as they did not amount to the cost of advertising.

It was finally decided to have the secretary of the board notify Joseph Long and Mrs. Arthur Brown who had submitted the rejected bids that they could have the concession in the park for $30 each, Mrs. Brown to have the uptown park concession and Mr. Long the downtown park concession. Both had the concessions last year.

Snow Removal, $9,095

It cost the city $9,913.96 to remove the snow from the streets during the past winter.

Included in this cost was an item for $582.58 which had been spent in the purchase of two new plows and other equipment.

Signs Over Streets

Objection was raised at the meeting of the action taken in erecting signs that hang over the street in front of business places.

After some discussion the secretary was directed to write Reis Brothers, who have recently installed a sign in front of the drive-in gas station on Broadway, near East Chester street, which is said to extend out into the street, and also to write Mr. Doyle on Hurley avenue, who also has a sign installed that projects over the street.

To Rebuild Streets

Mayor Heiselman reported that Superintendent Ernest A. Steudinger had prepared plans for street work 30 days in advance and the work for the first 30 days included the retreading of Abel street, from Wilbur avenue to the city line, and the rebuilding of First, Second and Third avenues where they had been torn up for sewer and water mains.

It was also planned to continue the emergency street patching program.

Work of patching the holes in the streets was started several

Lehman Kills Bill As Result of State Officer's Request

Dr. Godfrey Gives Promise of Cooperation With Any Municipality Affected by Law

Files Memorandum

Governor Points Out That Tremendous Progress Has Been Made

Albany, April 12.—(Special)—Announcement was made here today by Governor Lehman that he has vetoed the bill of Assemblyman J. Edward Conway of Kingston, which would have provided that discharge of city sewage into waters of the Hudson river shall not be unlawful or be required to be discontinued until January, 1941.

Disapproval of the bill, the governor stated, was made on recommendation of the state health commissioner, Dr. Edward S. Godfrey, Jr.

Introduced by Ryan

The bill, which has been backed by Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, of Kingston, as well as officials of various communities along the Hudson river south of Kingston, was introduced in the Senate by Senator Allan A. Ryan, Jr., of Poughkeepsie.

In a memorandum filed with his veto of the Conway-Ryan measure, the governor said:

"This bill provides that the discharge of city sewage into the waters of the Hudson river shall not be unlawful or be required to be discontinued until 1941."

"Under the provisions of the bill, the commissioner of health would have to hold in abeyance his requirements relating to installation and operation of sewage treatment facilities by Hudson river communities."

"Tremendous progress has been made throughout the state in eliminating objectionable and dangerous water pollution. I am certain that this program has met with the sympathetic approval of the majority of the people."

Promise of Cooperation

"The state commissioner of health has written to me requesting a veto of this bill. He has informed me that he is willing, at any time, to confer with representatives of any municipality and work out some progressive program which will be within the means of the municipality to carry out and which will give assurance of termination of the municipalities' sewage pollution within a reasonable period of time."

"The bill is disapproved."

Introduction of the bill by Assemblyman Conway followed an announcement early in January by Charles A. Holmquist, chief of the sanitation division of the state health department, that conditions described as "distinctly a menace to health" were found in the state's survey along both shores of the Hudson river for a distance of about 40 miles from a point north of Kingston to a point opposite West Point.

Well Under Way

At that time, Mr. Holmquist said: "Fortunately the movement to terminate objectionable pollution of the river is well under way. Many sewage treatment plants will be constructed in municipalities along the Hudson river this

Fleet Masses

Hampton Roads Is Scene of 'First Line' Activity of U. S. Sea Dogs

Norfolk, Va., April 12 (AP)—The United States fleet churned white the waters of Hampton Roads today as Uncle Sam's war dogs knifed between the Virginia Capes for a 15-day concentration of naval might.

The nation's "first line of defense" entering and leaving Virginia waters during the period will total 104 ships carrying more than 46,000 officers and men.

Arrival of the fleet's battle force today brought to 62 the warship already in the road. A flotilla of destroyers and smaller craft preceded the battle force's battleships, cruisers and aircraft carrier through the capes.

Steuding Report Presented to BPW

Superintendent Tells of March Snow Removal

During the month of March there had been 1,794 loads of snow and ice removed from the streets of Kingston. Superintendent Ernest A. Steuding reported to the Board of Public Works on Tuesday.

There had also been 803 loads of rubbish and ashes collected and removed from the curbs during the past month.

A total of 1,585 loads were trucked to the city incinerator for disposal during March.

On March 9 there was a 2½ inch fall of snow that required no plowing; sidewalks were cleaned, streets sanded, etc., at a cost of $152.47.

From March 11 to 13 there was a 14 inch fall of snow. All streets were plowed and all snow removed from business sections and churches. This work was completed by March 17, at a cost of $2,339.43, which included cleaning sidewalks, sanding streets, use of equipment, gas, oil, etc. There were 1,743 loads of snow removed from the street.

During March many sewers were flushed and manholes and catch basins cleaned.

For palatability and feeding value, many dairymen prefer a mixed legume-grass hay to a clear legume hay, such as alfalfa or clover. High-producing cows seem to relish mixed hay.

Wicks Asks Fair Tickets Be Given License by State

Albany, April 12.—(Special)—Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, has introduced in the legislature a bill providing that the tickets of admission to the New York World's Fair grounds shall be licensed, revocable by the fair corporation for conduct contrary to the efficient, orderly and peaceful conduct of the fair.

The corporation, under provisions of the Wicks bill, shall have exclusive authority to regulate amusements, concessions and exhibitions, and the grounds are to be exempt from any Sunday restrictions on business. Motor vehicles of commissioners general of foreign governments, it is also provided, are to be exempt from registration fees.

Senator Wicks' bill was referred to the committee on motor transportation for further consideration.

Also introduced in the Senate is a bill by Senator Erastus Corning, 2nd, of Albany, authorizing the state conservation commissioner to accept rights, covenants or easements in or affecting historic, scenic and scientific places in the Hudson river valley, and to take such action as may be necessary to protect the rights of the people in such places.

The measure was referred to Senate conservation committee for further action.

Senate approval has been given to the Wicks bill amending the administrative code of New York city, providing for removal of bodies and monuments in cemeteries and burial grounds acquired by New York for its water supply system. The bill now goes to the Assembly for concurrence.

The service was by the Rev. R. C. Swogger.

Miss Alice Benz is spending the Easter vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mogford of Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chambers and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wolven and son, Eugene, were Easter guests of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Stokes of the Connelly road.

Miss Betty Perry spent the week-end at her home in Stony Brook, L. I.

Captain Liberty Hyde is spending the week at his home on Second street.

Mrs. Flarity has returned from Kingston Hospital and is convalescing at her home on Plantasia avenue.

Mrs. James Wesley has been ill at her home the past few days with a cold.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Benz and daughters, Gertrude and Alice, also Eleanor Rowe spent Easter Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jahn and family of Ulster Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lass and daughters, Beverly and Carolann, visited their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Adorn, of Pleasant Valley Farm on Wednesday and Thursday and Miss Joanne Adorn accompanied her uncle and aunt on their return home to Grant City, Staten Island for the Easter vacation.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Smith of Athens spent a few days at the Hyde residence.

Stamps In The News

To honor the intense, cynical little artist, Paul Cezanne, who was born a banker's son in Aix 100 years ago, France has just issued a new 2.25 franc stamp.

Cezanne was not highly regarded by most of his contemporaries—in fact, he was ridiculed. But today his paintings are valued in thousands of dollars and he's called by some the father of modern art.

He was one of the first artists to depart from the cult of his period, Impressionism, the school which strove to create, in paint, the impression of light and air. Instead, Cezanne took a bit of nature and reduced it to a simple symmetrical form. For example, he would labor for weeks painting innumerable planes to produce the picture of an apple which would be structurally flawless.

Many twentieth century artists have used his tendency toward emphasizing structural form as a jumping off point to go the whole hog in abstraction.

The design on the stamp is a portrait of the painter against a background of Mount Victoire, a mountain that dominates several of his paintings. At the bottom of this blue stamp is his autograph superimposed on a palette.

Disappearing Nations

Stamp collectors have a particular interest in Hitler's nation-gobbling because in the past four years he has caused them to write fims to three departments in their albums and to add "rejoicing" adhesives to Germany's section. Since 1935 four areas have been absorbed by the Reich:

1. SAAR—Formerly a part of Germany, this 740-square-mile area was placed under League of Nations control after the war with the stipulation that a plebiscite be held in 15 years to determine future status. In January, 1935, the populace chose the Reich.

The Nazis noted its absorption by issuing an allegorical stamp which pictures mother "Germania" embracing her returned child, Saar.

2. AUSTRIA—This country abruptly stopped issuing stamps in the spring of 1938, when Nazi storm troopers took control of the country. Austria's last stamp, issued late in 1937, showed a rose in the center and the signs of the zodiac surrounding it.

3. CZECHO-SLOVAKIA—Hitler made his first grab here last September when he got the Sudeten area. A shrunken Czecho-Slovakia issued a stamp noting the newly-won autonomy of the Slovak district just before he grabbed again this March to end the nation's existence.

During the 21 years that it issued stamps, the country was extraordinarily prolific—more than 600 major and minor varieties appeared. The stamps—which usually showed historic castles, monuments or heroes—ranged in values from a few cents to $200. Dealers report they are much in demand now.

4. MEMEL—This area stopped issuing stamps in 1924, so that Hitler's recent conquest here did not mean the end of a philatelic career. However, it's significant in that it means that Lithuanian stamps will no longer circulate in Memel; and second, that the Reich will undoubtedly release another "rejoicing" stamp.

The area was originally German, but after the war it went under the control of the Allies. Its stamp-issuing existence lasted from 1920 until the League of Nations recognized Lithuania's claim to it in 1924. During that period it issued 260 major and minor varieties.

RUSSIA TO THE RESCUE

The "Town Meeting of the Air" last week was one of the most doleful affairs the American public has listened to in a long time. Several recognized experts spoke on the present European situation, and without exception they radiated alarm and gloom. Their discussion was enough to make any thoughtful American do some serious thinking about the state of the world, the peril of nations in which we are deeply interested, and the indirect effects on our own country.

It was agreed by the speakers that the dictators have got the jump on the democracies, that Premier Chamberlain's policy until lately was foolish and suicidal, and there was doubt whether even the recent about-face of the British government has come in time to save Europe from domination by the Nazi-Fascists. England itself, they agreed, is in a perilous plight, with an uncertain Spain next door and the dictators easily able to close the western entrance of the Mediterranean against her. Some of the speakers expected a quick drive of the dictators through Albania, Greece and Turkey, to seize the Dardanelles, bottle up the Black Sea against Rumania and Russia and close the Suez Canal.

What small hope the speakers had of preventing these and other dangerous moves against the western democracies rested with Russia. If Britain and France could enlist Russia on their side as a full-fledged ally, it might prevent another world war. Even though Russia may not be very strong militarily, they thought, and even though she did not send an army against Germany, Hitler and Mussolini would not dare start a big drive if the Russian Bear was threatening the German flank.

Britain and France lately have seemed to be paying heavily for their recent disdain of Russia's help. It isn't a question of ideologies, experts feel, but of life and death. They may be right.

FREAKY MARKET

People who used to think they had at least a little understanding of the stock market are puzzled lately. Sometimes a person of ordinary intelligence and information thinks he has a glimmering as to why the market moves up or down, but mostly it is very puzzling.

According to John T. Flynn, who has written a good deal about such matters and is regarded as an expert, there is a double reason for this puzzle. For one thing, stocks are unusually subject now to governmental and world influences which themselves are complex and difficult to understand. For another thing, there are too many experts and "insiders" with schemes for playing the market, and many of them have a big following. They may or may not go along with the natural forces at work. Sometimes, in their influence, they go counter to the natural forces.

"Never has the stock market been subjected to such extensive and vigorous scrutiny and analysis," says Mr. Flynn. "Never have experts—good, bad and indifferent—promulgated so many theories of speculation and investment. Also, never have there been so many counsellors giving advice to speculators and investors. What must be the fate of the market when any considerable number of experts send out to their clients the signal to sell or buy, and what must be the effect when most, if not all of them, hit upon the same signal at the same time?"

Different groups may work at cross purposes, or overdo the pressure in a certain direction. The result is chaotic. It is an unusually good time for novices, especially, not to gamble in stocks.

SCIENCE IN HISTORY

Some Britishers are concerned about history as taught to their sons and daughters in school. It has improved considerably, they admit, since the time when it was mostly a series of dates which the young memorized and used at examination time. They think, however, that there is room for much more improvement.

An article in the Manchester Guardian tells of some of the horrible examples such a critic has discovered. In one up-to-date textbook, he reported, chapters were devoted to Napoleon, pages to Gladstone, but not one sentence to Faraday. Yet Faraday's influence on the world, through his numerous discoveries in the realms of chemistry, physics and electricity, may well have been more important than that of either the emperor or the prime minister.

It may be that the writer of the history thought Faraday would be well presented in science classes and textbooks, and no doubt that is so. Nevertheless, history books should not ignore him. One trouble with much teaching in the past has been that it divided education into a lot of separate divisions whose interrelationship was never made clear to students.

NO MORE CHIVALRY

The most striking thing about these swash-buckling dictators is their ruthlessness. They seem so unnecessarily harsh and cruel. This characteristic stands out with special clearness in Mussolini's drive against Albania.

The cultured Albanian minister at Washington, Faik Konitza, speaks scornfully of Mussolini's Italy as "a prize fighter who knocks down a child." The Italians who have invaded his proud little kingdom, he says, have many admirable qualities, "but God Almighty, in his inscrutable design, has deprived them of all sense of chivalry."

This procedure, Americans prefer to believe, represents Mussolini rather than the Italian people as a whole, just as Hitler's heavy-handed cruelty is assumed to represent his own character rather than the German people's. But ruthless violence becomes more and more the world's pattern, and people who still believe in honor, chivalry and international honesty are more and more driven to blame the enslaved nations along with their masters.

"America has lost step with modern life and is hopelessly backward," says a foreign critic. Yes—we haven't any school rifle practice or any detention camps.

INSULIN FOR STRENGTH AND WEIGHT

I have spoken before of the tests made by Harvard research physicians on the runners competing in the Boston Marathon. They found that the blood of the runners who were the leaders at the finish, or who finished in the best physical condition, contained a large amount of sugar, whereas the blood of those who were last in finishing or who finished in poor condition contained only a small amount of sugar.

In the race the following year, these research men had some of these poor finishers with low blood sugar take some sugar during their training and also during the race. Without exception, all these runners taking this extra sugar finished nearer the top and in much better physical condition. For years it has been known that when too much sugar was in the blood, fat would be formed from this sugar and diabetes might readily follow. It would seem that there is the other side of the picture, that in cases where the blood does not seem to hold enough sugar to give the necessary energy and these individuals are thin and always tired or tire very easily.

Dr. S. Dorst, Cincinnati, in American Journal of Medical Sciences, Philadelphia, reports his observation of sixty-two patients whose blood did not hold sufficient sugar, with the result that they were weak and undernourished.

In order to help the blood to hold and use more sugar, they were treated with a small dose of insulin (five units) before breakfast and ten before lunch and dinner. A number of these patients showed great improvement, an increase in the sense of well-being, gain in weight and increased appetite. The insulin raised the blood's ability to hold and use sugar.

While Dr. Dorst is unable to explain just why insulin raises the "sugar curve" in the blood, he suggests that it may be that the insulin has the power of breaking down and using some of the sugar stored in the liver. That this may explain the action of insulin is brought out by Dr. W. Bruhl, Berlin, whose experiments tend to prove that the functional (working ability) of the liver can now be made known by giving insulin and noting the blood sugar curve.

For these very thin individuals who eat plenty of food including sugar and starches, the use of insulin may prove of great help in increasing weight and strength.

Overweight and Underweight

Do you know just what you should weigh for your height and type of body build? Do you know which foods to avoid in order to reduce weight and which to eat to increase weight? Send for Dr. Barton's useful booklet, entitled "Overweight and Underweight" (No. 105) which includes calorie charts and sample diets. Send your request to The Bell Library, 247 West 43rd street, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of handling and mention The Kingston Daily Freeman.

Labor Law Changes if Made in Spirit of Mutual Tolerance
May Bring Greatest Gains to Labor

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, April 12.—Senator Wagner's statesmanlike assertion that, if the labor law which bears his name needs amendments to make it truly fair to all concerned, he would support such changes, but that he thought the burden of proof was on those seeking change was a significant keynote to hear when the Senate committee opened its investigation of the operations of the National Labor Relations Act.

Broadly speaking, there are three groups which want changes in the Wagner act.

One is composed of the extremists who would like to see the whole act repealed, but who know this is impossible at the present time and hence would like to see crippling amendments adopted.

A second group realizes repeal is at present out of the question, but wants amendments which will make the provisions of the act less one-sided.

A third group knows there are weaknesses in the law, but is opposed to any change whatsoever, believing that in this strategy lies the best defense for the administration.

In some respects, this last group holds the fate of collective bargaining in its hands. For, if an uncompromising position toward amendments should prevail, the effect on public opinion inevitably will be to accelerate the drive for complete repeal and the setting up of an entirely new system of labor relations.

This possibility is scouted as improbable by the defenders of the law, but the trend of hostility in Congress toward the Wagner act since the last elections rather refutes the notion that a fundamental alteration of the present situation in industrial relations can be long postponed.

The problem, therefore, which friends and foes of the Wagner act face is whether the present law can be amended to take care of the principal complaints lodged against it and yet retain for the statute the virile features which have made it for labor unions the greatest boon in all history.

With the collective bargaining provisions as written, there can be little objection, and it is being more and more recognized every day that interference by employers with the efforts of workers to form their own unions is taboo. But it never was intended that collective bargaining should be superseded by a system of compulsory unionization with government influence behind it.

Much of the criticism of the National Labor Relations Board has been unfair because the board has been merely interpreting the law which gives it wide discretionary power. Yet the solution does not lie in asking the board to reverse its decisions or to make a new set of rules. The Congress shirked its task in the beginning when it delegated to the labor board wider powers over industrial relations than most people in the labor world thought were being bestowed. The American Federation of Labor, for instance, today regrets that it approved certain ambiguous provisions in the law which have been used by the labor board, through legal means of course, to break down certain A. F. of L. unions. The board did not adopt any course friendly or unfriendly to particular national labor organizations, but, under the law, was often compelled to decide between them on the question of what constitutes an appropriate unit for collective bargaining.

Little progress will be made toward getting desirable changes in the law unless it is approached on a theoretical basis. Fears and suspicions have been a controlling factor in writing the law, and now that the act has been in operation nearly four years, it is evident that the law sometimes has been used in a way to upset otherwise mutually satisfactory labor relations, and it has been used also to forward the ambitions of rival labor organizing groups, with the employer helpless as between factional disputes.

"Company" unions, meaning thereby organizations dominated or financed by the employer, have been forbidden by the Wagner law, and no amendments on that score will be tolerated by Congress, but this is a different thing from placing independent units at the mercy of national organizations, as complained of by Ellenor of Louisiana, Democrat.

The Wagner act is a law to regulate employer conduct, and as such alone may need very little, if any, amendment, but the assumption that labor relations consist only of one set of persons is unhappily increasing the amount of labor warfare in America.

Regulation of employee conduct, however, need not go to the point of setting up ways and means of interfering with lawful activities of unions. It can provide for better relations between employees and employers because, under the present law, employers are afraid even to talk with their own employees for fear of trumped-up charges of "unfair labor practice," which unhappily the labor board has in the past taken seriously in enough cases as to cause a wall of frigidity to grow up between management and workers. It is this aspect of the law—the human phase—which needs most attention, and if the whole subject is approached in a spirit of mutual tolerance instead of a closing of minds before the hearing gets underway, some changes may be made which in the long run will prove for labor the greatest gain it has made in all the years of battling for the right of collective bargaining.

PORT EWEN NEWS

Fire School Tomorrow Evening

Port Ewen, April 12.—On Thursday evening, April 13, at 7:30 o'clock the first session in fire school will be held at the Port Ewen fire house on Broadway. The subject will be "Courtesy of Firemen to Officers and Public; and Sizingup." The instructor will be Chief Joseph L. Murphy of the Kingston Fire Department. Firemen interested in further education of firemanship are invited to attend these sessions.

Daguerreotype To Be Exhibited

Port Ewen, April 12.—An exhibit of great interest at the show of "Heirlooms of Yesterday and Tomorrow" to be held May 9 at the Reformed Church house by the Dorcas Society will be centered around a daguerreotype of Marietta Doolittle Maynard of Stamford, an ancestor of Mrs. Harold Buddington of this village. There will also be displayed two hand made wool blankets, the wool for which was grown, carded and spun on her farm, and woven by her. The flax wheel she used to spin the wool will be shown. The exhibit will be completed with three quilts, also made by her, one is the "President's Wreath" pattern, another "Robbing Peter to Pay Paul," and the third a stuffed quilt with a "Horn of Plenty" design. This last is unusual in that it was first quilted in 1860 and then stuffed pushed in between the top and lining, between the quilting.

Whitney Begins His Second Term

Fallen Financier Hits 220 Pounds, Is Cheerful

Ossining, N. Y., April 12 (AP).—Apparently adjusted to a routine strange to his background, Richard Whitney, fallen financier, started today his second year in Sing Sing prison.

The one-time head of the New York Stock Exchange whose brokerage house went to the wall in a spectacular collapse in March, 1938, went quietly about his duties as clerk in the chief keeper's office. Prison officials described him as healthy, cheerful and 16 pounds heavier than when he was admitted.

Whitney, convict 94835, was sentenced to from five to 10 years in prison after he pleaded guilty to stealing funds entrusted to him. His minimum term, under the probation laws, is three years and four months.

Taken for Granted
Fellow-Prisoners who were inclined to regard him as a visiting celebrity at first now take him for granted. Guards reported his relations with other convicts were cordial and courteous and that he was having "no trouble."

Whitney's job at the moment is to keep the tally count of prisoners five times a day, an important job in prison administration.

In an effort to keep down his weight, Whitney exercises at every available opportunity, but the substantial prison fare and regular hours of sleep have boosted his weight to about 220 pounds.

After his turn at the usual mental tasks given to new prisoners, Whitney became an instructor in visual education in the prison school. He stayed on that job for several months and then was transferred to his present duties.

He goes frequently to the prison library for books of all kinds and newspapers and magazines.

Whitney has had few visitors during the year he has been here. Several lawyers visited him from time to time when he first came.

His brother, George, a J. P. Morgan partner, has visited him twice.

His wife has been a visitor almost every week.

Local YMCA Drive To Begin April 25

Goal of Campaign Is Set at $12,120 This Year

The annual "business boosters budget campaign" of the Kingston Y. M. C. A. will open on Monday, April 25. It was announced today leaders of the four divisions are busy signing up their workers. The organization of the drive will consist of four divisions with 24 workers in each.

The initial gifts committee are already at work. This committee is composed of A. H. Chambers, H. V. Clayton, Arthur Colgan, J. A. Guttridge, A. L. Hanstein, Lloyd LeFever, Ernest LeFever, Clifford Rose, C. S. Rowland, H. R. St. John, Clyde Wonderly, A. T. Young, Harry Walker and S. Maxwell Taylor. Acting as co-chairmen of the committee are C. S. Treadwell and A. B. Shuffield.

Although the committee has been working for the past several days now, there has been no formal report made as yet. The co-chairmen feel, however, that the work is progressing a little better than last year, there having been a number of increases in the subscriptions thus far gotten.

The goal for this year's campaign has been set at $12,120. In that is an item of $1,000 for repairs to the swimming pool. The state health laws have changed considerably since the pool was originally constructed. The repairs to be made are in accordance with the present regulations regarding such equipment. Plans for the necessary improvements have been drawn by Mr. Lowe and are in Albany now for approval of the state health department.

Adopting Word 'Excelsior'

How the term "excelsior" came to be applied to long, fine wood shavings used as a packing material for eggs and other breakable objects is not known for certain. It is a purely American term and apparently originated as a trade name. Undoubtedly it is the same word as the comparative degree of the Latin "excelsus," which means elevated. Thus "Excelsior," the title of a well known poem by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, means still higher, more lofty or ever upward. New York state adopted the word as its motto. Aspen, cottonwood, basswood, willow, red gum, spruce and certain pines are the favorite woods used in the manufacture of excelsior, or wood wool as it is also called. The logs are first cut into blocks about 18 inches in length and the fibers are separated from the blocks by knife points. A cord of wood produces about 2,000 pounds of excelsior.

CHEST COLDS

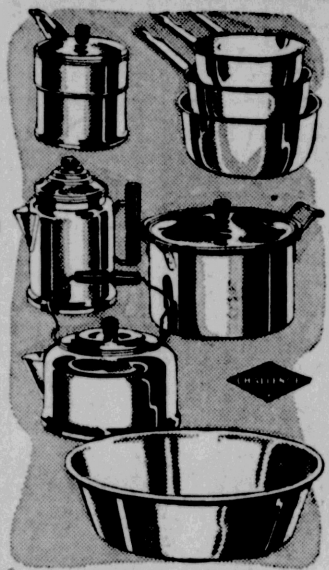

Here's Quick Relief from Their DISTRESS!

The annoying discomforts of a cold in chest or throat, generally ease when soothing, warming Musterole is applied. Better than a mustard plaster, Musterole gets action because it's NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant"; stimulating, it penetrates the surface skin and helps to quickly relieve local congestion, aches and pains due to colds.

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

The Characters

Asay Mayo, Cope Cod sleuth. J. Arthur Brinley, pompous section chief of Billingsgate.

Yesterday Asay and Key beaten up by an unknown assailant in the woods. He trails the fellow and is shot at. Asay shoots back.

Worse Than A Greased Pig

Chapter 33

SOMEWHERE away off in the distance, three shots replied to his. Asay nodded. That was Lane, or some one of his men, and they would be heartily welcome.

As the noise of the shots died out, the fellow began to run, apparently realizing that Asay was having reinforcements. Asay went after him.

In the chase that followed, he began to understand how Zeb Chase had felt the previous Saturday night.

No matter how grimly he continued, or how many times he tried to raise his speed, the man was always ahead, and just far enough ahead that Asay actually never once saw him. Once he took a pot shot, but a pot shot had no effect on that speeding, twisting, dodging human.

"If," Asay thought, "the man is human!"

By degrees they circled around to where the ground sloped to the pond and the surrounding marshes.

When they reached the beginning of the marsh land, Asay slowed up.

He had no knowledge of this particular spot, but he knew enough about these treacherous muddy marshes in general to be very wary. In his childhood the marshes near his home had been to wandering cattle what the automobile later became to wandering dogs. A series of pictures flashed through his mind—the time his father's best mare had gone down in a mud hole over by Holbrook's, and the hastily improvised blocks and tackles, and the lanterns flickering, and finally his uncle borrowing a shotgun from Nate Holbrook.

The strange laugh floated out ahead of him, but Asay stood still. Not even on the chance of catching a murderer would he let himself be maneuvered toward that ground.

Instead he sat down and loaded his forty-five.

According to his calculations, he was on the edge of the swampy land east of the pond, and not over three hundred yards from the ice house where he had been with Kay and Brinley and the soprano earlier in the day.

Somewhere, this fellow must have a car. There were two approaches to the pond, the short narrow lane which he and Kay had used, and the road where Brinley had left his machine. The latter road was by Holbrook's, but it was also farther from the pond and harder to reach in a hurry. But it seemed to Asay that if he were in this fellow's shoes, he would prefer having a greater distance to cover in an emergency to the chance of being bottled up in that narrow path. It was about three to one that the car was parked on the east road.

Asay decided to abandon the chase and investigate the line of retreat. Trying to catch this fellow was a par with trying to catch the greased pig at the old Barnstable fairs, the principal difference being that the pig at least was visible.

After three unsuccessful attempts, he finally reached the east road.

A parked car loomed out of the fog directly ahead of him, and the sight nearly made him whoop.

He waited in the bushes, flashlight in one hand, forty-five in the other. This business was going to come to a finish, right then and there.

At last the man came, sliding out of the underbrush so quietly that Asay almost missed him.

The fellow was panting, Asay noted with pleasure. His breath came in short quick gasps and he walked as though he were utterly exhausted. Asay knew how the fellow felt. His feet exactly the same way.

'Flabbergasted' The man was abreast of him. Asay's light flashed into his face and the forty-five ground above the fellow's belt buckle.

"My golly! So it's you, is it, J. Arthur? Brother Brinley, the old—say, it is you, isn't it?"

J. Arthur was shaking from head to foot.

"It's me—who—are—is it Asay?"

"Old Mayo," Asay said, "Nurmi Mayo. You turn around. That's it. Keep on turning. That's right, J. Arthur. You don't mind if I'd like to be flabbergasted, do you? I'd never suspected it in a hundred years. Feel this gun bopin' into your back? You do? Well, J. Arthur, you behave, or it'll go off, with results that'll be a revelation to you."

With the flashlight propped between his jacket buttonholes,

"Not in a shoulder holster—my, my, what'd you do with your pop gun an' silencer?" Asay asked.

"Dropped 'em into the pond, did you? Or what?"

"That do you mean? I—"

"Brinley," Asay said, "there's no two-year-old in the world who wouldn't tell you this is not the time to bluster. Pick up both feet, laddie, an' march along the road. We ain't taking to the bush no more tonight. That's it. Just you step right along. I'm behind you, March."

Brinley marched.

"Can't we," he said breathlessly after a minute or two, "go in my car? That's my car, there—"

"I just couldn't trust myself to take rides with you, J. Arthur. Not after tonight. I somehow feel I mightn't get a chance to walk home. When you get a combination of a henpecked husband, an' a Mister Milquetoast, who tries to be pompous an' blustery, it's sort of misleadin'. You don't expect—whooa—you don't turn around, J. Arthur, you—"

"Save Your Breath"

"I WILL so turn around!" Brinley said. "What I do is my business, and you have no right to interfere!"

"You might just as well save your breath," Asay said, "an' march along—hey, who's that?"

Someone was calling his name.

"Asay, Asay Mayo! Where are you?"

Asay bellowed back, and shortly Hamilton appeared from the woods.

"You got him! Who—Brinley? Well, well."

"He's tryin'," Asay said, "to be innocent than a new born lamb. I hand it to him."

"What went on?"

"I don't know about the first part of it," Asay said. "But he's been givin' me a workout I won't forget in years. Had a little silencer arrangement, an' used it lavishly. Tried to bog me, too, but I refused to be bogged. How's Kay? You seen her?"

"I guess she's all right. She was up at the house, and Cummings was looking after her. Had a scalp wound. Just a scratch, but it bled a lot. I didn't wait to hear her story. I started out for you, Lane's out, too, and a bunch of his boys."

"Did you get Prettyman off all right?" Asay asked.

Hamilton laughed. "That guy is a pip, Asay. He got on the train and walked smack up to Burley and said, 'Let's be friends, it's so much easier that way. They got a wire from Burley before I left Boston. He said they were getting all swell. He said—hey, what's the matter, Brinley? Get going!'"

"J. Arthur turned around."

"I will not," he announced firmly. "move one more step until I have taken my shoes off, and I will not move very many steps after that! I tell you, my feet hurt!"

"With Hamilton here to help cope with you," Asay said, "I can afford to be gen'rous. Go ahead."

"Watch out," Hamilton warned.

"Wait, Brinley. I had a guy nearly kill me once, taking a stone out of his shoe. Little gadget in his shoe fired a slug. I'll bet the shoes off for you. Stick up a foot."

Despite Brinley's protests that he was perfectly able to remove his own shoes, Hamilton pulled them off.

"Okay," he said. "And what fancy shoes you wear!"

"Say," Asay interrupted, "I got a—let me see them shoes, Hamilton. I didn't think to—"

They were white buckskin oxfords with leather soles.

"Put in our light an' watch him, Hamilton," Asay said. "I want to look into these shoes."

They were not just white buckskin shoes, they were the whitest buckskin shoes Asay had ever seen. There wasn't a scratch or a mark or a smudge on them. They were brand new.

Asay looked down at his own rubber-soled brown leather shoes. Briars and blackberry vines had scarred the leather in two dozen places. There were broken pine needles stuck in the laces. The toes were wet. Lumps of dirt and mud from the lawns showed on the toe and along the side.

He raised one foot. A mixture of leaves and dirt was packed solidly in the space between the low heel and the instep.

And J. Arthur's buckskin shoes were white, and the leather sole was highly damp.

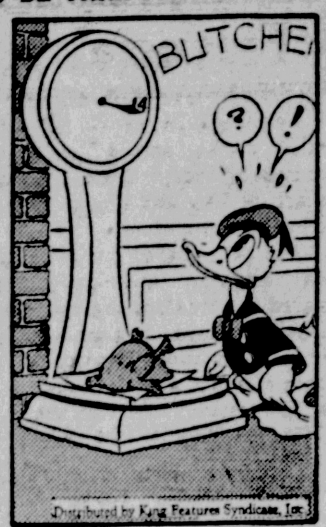

Continued tomorrow.

Living To Be 100

In Oklahoma City, an organization whose 800 members are 70 years old or more, are maintaining a "school of maturation" to learn how to live to be 100 years old. Following are the six principal rules agreed upon to reach that objective:

Taking a walk in the open air each day.

Keeping the blood alkalized by managed diet.

Attending church or making a social call at least once a week.

Pursuing a personal hobby or light daily task.

Maintaining faith in life, people, and the Infinite Goodness.

Pat was passing a bird store and heard a parrot call out "Hello, hello, hello!"

"What kind of a bird is that?" he asked the proprietor with surprise.

"That's a parrot, the only bird that can talk," said the proprietor.

"Well, I'll buy him. How much do you want?"

"Twenty-five dollars," said the proprietor without batting an eyelash.

"That's a terrible price, but I'll pay it for such a smart bird," Pat arrived home late, after his wife had gone to bed.

The next morning he went off to work before she was up. When he came home that evening for supper he said "Bridget, how's the bird?"

"I don't know, Pat, it's still in the oven."

Courteous people usually encounter the most courtesy.

"As you know, No. 381354-B is to be hanged this morning." "You are right." "But he wishes it postponed your honor." "And what are his reasons, my man?" "Well, he has a boil on his neck, and he fears the rope may open it and cause infection. He even intimates, your honor, that it might prove fatal."

A Manhattan man believes his son will be president some day because he spends more than he can save.

Youth goes about marriage with enthusiasm, the present meaning more than the future. In older people this order is reversed, the future meaning more than the present.

As they grow older they become more difficult to please, and they also find the ranks thinning among those they themselves can please.

Scallop—Is insomnia catching? Axiater—It is when your baby has it.

Noosed (tenderly)—If I should die, dear, would you marry again? Mrs. Noosed (teasingly)—You funny man. What makes you think I'll wait for that?

Every man will drop any grudge he may be carrying, if you will hit him with kindness.

Conestoga Wagon Named For Pennsylvania Town

The Conestoga wagon or wain was so named because it was manufactured at Conestoga, Lancaster county, Pennsylvania. This wagon, relates a writer in the Indianapolis News, had a high, boat-shaped body with curved canoe-shaped bottom, which fitted it especially for mountain travel. The advantage of this feature was that freight remained firmly in place at whatever angle the body might tilt. The body was usually painted a blue or slate color, and the sideboards vermillion. The rear end could be lifted from its sockets. The wheels had broad tires, sometimes almost a foot broad. Six or eight bows were arched over the body, the middle ones lower than those at the ends, and over these was spread stout white hempen cloth, strongly corded down at the sides and ends.

The vehicle could be loaded to the top of the bows and could carry from four to six tons. Six or more horses were attached in teams. The top of the front hoop was 11 feet from the ground; the white cover was 24 feet long. The top ends of the wagon beds were 16 feet apart and the rear wheels five or six feet high. When the six-horse team was pulling, team and wagon stretched to 60 feet. The heavy, broad harness was made of good leather and trimmed with brass plates. Bell-tows were common; a metal arch was attached to the harness and bells fastened thereto.

Soybeans with corn for silage is now a regular field crop on many farms, and more and more dairy farmers are adapting the practice each year.

KRUMVILLE

Krumville, April 11—Mrs. Jennie Beesmer recently celebrated her 75th birthday at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller. Those attending the party were: Sherman Miller of Krumville, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Beesmer of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. William Beesmer, Mrs. Levi Crispell and daughter, Ester, of Olive Bridge, Mr. and Mrs. John Crispell and daughter, Miss Shirley Ann, and Mr. and Mrs. George Schick of Port Ewen, Mrs. William H. Holthoff of Rochester and Miss Marjorie Skelly of New York city.

Beesmer received many telegrams of congratulations from friends and relatives in New York city and Rochester, also many beautiful gifts. A very pleasant social evening was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by Mr. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Every of Whitfield last week Thursday visited friends here.

Last week the Rev. and Mrs. William H. Barringer visited friends at Nassau, N. Y.

At the meeting of the consistory of Krumville and Lyonsville churches which met at the parsonage last Wednesday evening, Chester Roosa, Jacob Barley and Sherman Barley of Lyonsville were present. Those from the local church besides the pastor were Ernest Eckert, John A. Barringer, John Marshall and Clayton Christiana. The Rev. J. B. Stokette of Kingston presided at the meeting.

Thursday afternoon of last week the Rev. and Mrs. William H. Barringer attended the regular monthly, also the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Lyonsville Church, when the new officers were elected for the next year as follows: Mrs. Maude Christiana, president; Mrs. Kenneth Oakley, vice president; Miss Mildred Barley, secretary and treasurer. William H. Barringer, chaplain, and Mrs. Fred Oakley, organist.

At the joint communion service of the two churches last Thursday evening at the Lyonsville Church, the Rev. Harold J. Hoffman installed Loren Hoyer as deacon of Krumville Reformed Church, and the Rev. William H. Barringer as elder of the Krumville Church.

Cecil Krom and Clyde Davis were at Newburgh on business last Friday.

The local school closed here last Thursday afternoon for the Easter vacation.

Miss Ester Crispell is spending her Easter vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Crispell.

The Rev. William H. Barringer and Robert and Betty Jane Lobdell, his grandchildren, were at Kingston last Friday.

The Rev. Harry Christiana of Fultonville, with his family, are visiting his father, Stephen Christiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith of Kingston visited Mrs. Smith's father, John A. Barringer, last Sunday.

Mrs. William H. Holthoff of Rochester, who has been spending a week with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller, returned home last Thursday.

Easter guests of Mr. and Mrs.

Conrad Christensen and their daughter, Violet, were Lincoln and Oscar Christensen of New York city, and the Rev. and Mrs. William H. Barringer and their two grandchildren, Robert and Betty Jane Lobdell.

Mrs. Gardner Donahue was taken to the Benedictine Hospital at Kingston last Thursday for treatment.

Church attendance at both churches last Sunday morning was good. There were 23 at Lyonsville and 64 at Krumville.

At the regular meeting of the Community Circle of Krumville Church, which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hoyer last week, there were 20 present. At this meeting it was voted to send for copies of the play they expect to give at the church in June, "Look Who's Here."

The next meeting will be next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the president, Miss Violet Christensen. All in the community are invited to attend this meeting.

Miss Marjorie Skelly of New York city, who has been spending several weeks visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller, returned home last Saturday.

Mrs. Cecil M. Gray of Olive Bridge, who has been ill for some time, was able to visit her mother, Mrs. Katie Davis last week.

The church school will meet next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock with Clayton Christiana, the superintendent, in charge.

At the morning worship service at 11 o'clock there will be a dedication service of the new hymn books and the pastor will take for his subject, "Songs of Praises." Subject of sermon for the children will be "The Busy Bird."

Snub-Nosed Jane Now 'Grown Up'

'Terrific Brat' Enters Adolescence on Diet

Hollywood, April 12 (A).—Snub-nosed Jane Withers took time out today, on her 13th birthday, to check over her first five years of stardom, consider her present situation and look into the future.

It must have been with true feminine satisfaction that she looked into her mirror and saw the new streamlined Jane, scarcely to be recognized as the chubby youngster of six months before.

Looking ahead, the only thing possibly on her mind was the party—her first one—which her mother is giving for her next Saturday night with 60 guests.

The whole day was much brighter than the morning Mrs. Ruth Withers arrived here with "Georgia's Dainty Dewdrop," the pride of Atlanta. They were sorry they came. Six months later, they finally got into a studio. They pegged along until 1934, when the little nobody crashed through as a terrific brat in Shirley Temple's "Bright Eyes." The contract and 17 starring pictures followed.

Jane's employers believe she has emerged with honors from the gawky stage and are planning Tarkington-like romances for her coming pictures.

Jane's streamlining began several months ago. She was entertaining some other girls at a swimming party. For the first time in her life chubby Jane seemed to be conscious that her figure lacked the symmetry displayed by the other mermaids in the Withers pool.

That night she went on a self-imposed diet which eliminated potatoes, butter, ice cream, candy and cake.

Jane Withers is growing up.

Certified seed potatoes and fertilizer will cost many growers this year from $50 to $75 an acre.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 12 (AP)—The stock market scored a further comeback today from its wane decline and many shares climbed one to four.

The rally played out after midday, however, and gains were pared a bit before the final hour. Dealings slowed to a mere trickle, with transactions running at the rate of about a million shares for a full session. Most of the business was done in the first two hours.

Corporate bonds joined stocks in the rebound. Hides, rubber and other commodities which had been sold on war fears also improved, though price changes mostly were small.

Crack on the snap-back were such previously hard hit shares as International Harvester, Union Carbide, du Pont, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, Montgomery Ward and International Nickel.

Heading the rally on the curb were American Gas and Electric, Aluminum of America, Gulf Oil and Lockhead. Aluminum, Ltd. was marked up sharply in a thin market.

A regular meeting of Clinton Chapter, No. 445, O. E. S., will be held at Masonic Hall, Wall street, on Friday evening, April 14. Regular business will be transacted and refreshments and a social hour, including the playing of darts and other games, will follow. All members of the Eastern Star and Masonic fraternities are invited to attend.

Rip Van Winkle Triangle, No. 81, will hold a public meeting Thursday evening at Masonic Hall, Wall street. At that time the newly elected officers will be installed by Junior Deputy Mary Smith. The meeting will be at 8 o'clock and all friends of the girls are invited to attend, as well as Masons and members of the Eastern Star. A social hour will follow the meeting with refreshments.

Morgan Social Club

The Morgan Social Club held its regular monthly meeting in the club rooms on Cornell street last night. A program of summer activities was arranged including a club softball team. Candidates for the team are requested to be present at the Athletic Field Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock to try out for positions on the diamond.

Heavy Selling in Early Session of Market Tuesday

After heavy selling during the first two hours of yesterday's stock market session that resulted in losses of over three points at noon on the part of industrial issues, the liquidation suddenly ceased, and there was a general recovery and prices at the close showed but a small net loss for the day. At the close industrials in the Dow-Jones averages were off 0.28 point for the day to 123.75; rails had declined 0.01 point to 24.73; utilities showed a gain of 0.25 point to 21.20. Total transactions were 1,660,000 shares. Two stocks made new highs yesterday, while 289 issues registered new lows for 1939.

Opening of the New York market followed weakness in foreign financial centers. The London market, reopening after the long holiday, started with a general marking down of prices as a precautionary measure, but despite this there was considerable nervousness, particularly from the continent and the market closed weak with the Financial Times industrial average off 1.8 points for the day. The Amsterdam Bourse was weak in inactive trading. Losses ranging to two points were shown on the Berlin Bourse.

Bonds followed the action of stocks and all but utility averages were off slightly. Commodities closed irregularly lower.

There is a possibility that U. S. Steel may show a slight balance for common stock as the result of operations in the quarter ended March 31. Such a showing would be the best for any quarter since that of September 30, 1937, when the corporations had net profit of $30,617,638 after all deductions.

In the last quarter of 1938 earnings were equal to $1.22 on preferred shares.

Loadings last week are estimated to have dropped to 527,000 cars, from 604,211 the previous week. The falling off is ascribed wholly to the drop in soft coal shipments as a result of shutdowns of the mines.

The Delaware Supreme Court upheld a decision of a lower court awarding to Loft 91 per cent stock ownership in Pepsi Cola, also the $2 dividend declared in 1936. Total is at least $23,512,500, of $15.96 a share on Loft capital stock outstanding at the close of 1938.

First quarter earnings of General American Transportation are placed at around 50 cents a share.

Chairman Carlisle of Niagara Hudson Power told stockholders that with anything like restoration of normal business in this country there would be a return to earnings comparable with the good years of the past.

Roosevelt to Sign Relief Measure

Presidential Approval Is Assured, Report Says, for 100-Million Bill

Washington, April 12 (AP)—A $100,000,000 emergency relief bill was on its way to the White House assured of Presidential approval, although it is $50,000,000 less than Mr. Roosevelt requested.

The Senate passed the measure without dissent last night after rejecting, 49 to 28, an amendment by Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) to increase the sum by $50,000,000.

The fight over Pepper's proposal brought a sharp split in administration ranks. Democratic Leader Barkley supported the $100,-

Boost Campaign Meets Approval

City Business Association Voices Satisfaction With Venture

Members of the Central Business Men's Association reported themselves as well pleased with the current merchandising campaign, at a meeting of the group held in the local Y. M. C. A. last evening.

Herman G. Rafalowsky, chairman of the "Boost Central Broadway" drive, now under way, indicated that reports to him were generally satisfactory and he said the committee had decided to allow five votes on all 25-cent purchases for the remainder of the contest which ends May 17.

The awards will be made Thursday evening, May 18, at the Broadway Theatre.

Action was deferred on a plan outlined by A. J. Kenyon, of New York, to advertise Kingston on the highways to attract visitors to the World's Fair.

The association voted unanimously to support the Second Annual Apple Blossom Festival to be held May 6. The association subscribed to a $5 membership and several members purchased individual memberships.

The meeting was conducted by Harry B. Walker, president.

Funeral Directors Meet For Dinner This Evening

The Caskill Mountain Funeral Directors' Association will meet at 6 o'clock this evening at the Les Lilies Inn, at Mt. Marion for the monthly business session. Following the meeting dinner will be served and will be followed by dancing and entertainment.

Paul Zucca and his orchestra will furnish the music for the evening, and Paul Yocan and members of his dance studio will entertain.

The wives and friends of the members of the association will attend the dancing and entertainment.

Miller Resigns County Position

Lomontville Man Is No Longer President of Conservation Group

John J. Miller of Lomontville, who succeeded Holt N. Winfield the first of the year as a member of the Internal Revenue Department staff when Mr. Winfield became president of the Kingston Savings Bank, has resigned his position as president of the Ulster County Agricultural Conservation Association.

Mr. Miller has held the position of president of the Conservation Association since its formation and resigns now because of other duties. His resignation was presented and accepted at a meeting of the committee at the Farm Bureau office here on Monday evening.

Since its formation the County Conservation Association has paid out to approximately 1,200 farmers in the county the sum of $160,000.

Frank E. Gaffney, Sr., of Highland succeeds Mr. Miller as president of the association and as chairman of the county committee. Harry J. Beatty of Hurley, Kingston, becomes vice-chairman and John L. Schoonmaker of Accord becomes a member of the committee to fill the vacancy caused by the withdrawal of Mr. Miller as a member. Fred Simpson of Accord takes Mr. Schoonmaker's place as chairman of the Rondout Valley Community Conservation Committee.

Funds distributed by the committee are a part of the Federal Farm program. Mr. Miller has also resigned as a director of the Mt-Hudson Egg Auction which he assisted in organizing and in which he has been actively interested.

George's Rest

George Bungert of Highland has filed a certificate with the county clerk, stating that he is doing a business at the Bridge Circle, town of Lloyd, under the name and style of George's Rest.

Plaintiffs Given Accident Verdict

Mr. and Mrs. Pruss Are Favored by Ruling

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pruss of Gardiner were awarded a verdict in county court today arising out of an accident which took place on September 8, 1938, at New Paltz when their car was sideswiped by a car operated by Cecil E. Russell of New Paltz, who is employed at the Walkill Medium Security Prison.

Mr. Pruss was awarded $83.65 and his wife was given a verdict of $200 for injuries suffered. It was alleged by plaintiffs that they had started home from New Paltz when the Russell car sideswiped their machine near the Catholic Church in New Paltz, throwing Mrs. Pruss through the windshield of their Chrysler car inflicting injuries. Mr. Pruss sought damages to his car.

Peter H. Harp appeared for the plaintiffs and there was no defense offered. The witness told Judge Traver and a jury that the Pruss car was damaged to the extent of $167.65 and that doctor bills amounting to $25 were contracted and $16 was spent for help in the house while Mrs. Pruss was laid up.

Russell, after the crash, left the scene and was picked up by Corporal Norman Baker about three miles from the scene of the accident toward Highland. He was convicted of driving a car while intoxicated. Later he agreed to pay for damage done and signed an agreement which was offered in evidence. Of a total of $208.65 he has paid $125 leaving the $83.65 balance. In addition Mrs. Pruss brought an action for her injuries, asking $200. The jury returned a verdict for the full amount.

Mayor Is Host to K.H.S. Civics Students on Tour

Mayor C. J. Heiselman entertained the members of his civics class of the Kingston High School today when a tour of the public buildings was made under his supervision, and later in the day the students were taken for a motor ride around the Kingston water shed.

The civics students in the high school are again this year studying city government, and several weeks ago a class was given instructions by Mayor Heiselman, while other groups studied various phases of government under the direction of the heads of the various city departments.

The members of the civics class will later hold an election at the high school to elect a student mayor and other student officials to have charge of the city government for one day.

County Papers To Push Fete

Ulster Representatives to Form Committee

A representative from each of the various newspapers of Ulster county will form the publicity committee for the second annual Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival. This was decided at a meeting held at the Governor Clinton Hotel last night, called by Edward M. Huben, chairman of publicity for the festival.

The Farm Bureau office was designated as headquarters to which all news items regarding the festival should be sent. Chairman Huben asked that all festival committee chairmen make a point of sending to the Farm Bureau office, during the next few weeks, any information regarding the work of their committees that could be used for publicity purposes. They are asked to write or phone this information to the headquarters as soon as possible after it is obtained.

It was stated that plans are being formed to furnish out of the county newspapers with publicity regarding the festival and travel bureaus, broadcasting sources and similar agencies will be contacted.

Ground Is Broken For Youth Center

ational and recreational program is already under way.

There are, now at the center, 32 boys from various New York state communities. These boys have been selected by special recommendation of their supervisors.

Based on Experience

Experience in the CCC and the NYA has shown that funds to purchase in the open market raw materials necessary to carry on the real program of craft training permitting participation for every individual would represent an exorbitant figure. Such experience has likewise proved that the acquiring, or even borrowing of material from surplus lists and other sources takes considerable time, at best a year to assemble and store. Hence, to resolve these difficulties into terms which might approach the requirements of the NYA certain basic changes have had to be made in the original conception.

"Since the greatest difficulties arise in the realm of usable materials," said W. D. Phelps, director of the center and former director of the Industrial Arts Division of the C. C. C. at Governors Island, "why not recognize that fact by aiming the program directly at the production of the needed raw materials and in so doing provide an abundance of such things for future training? In reality this is the way that craft instruction always has and always should begin. Apprenticeship training in all ages has started with a lowly but increasingly complete understanding of the materials involved."

"Recalling the pertinent items most readily obtainable from surplus lists and other sources, I would suggest wool, leather and wood as the three most promising elements for a start. Other materials such as metal and various plastics should be continuously acquired, looking forward to the day when such types of training could be instituted."

Contemplated Training

The following training program is contemplated as various buildings are completed:

Wood—The drying and caring for lumber, carpentry, joinery, cabinet making and good experience in the use and handling of wood in all its phases.

Wool—The dyeing of yarn, all manner of weaving and knitting. Leather—The finishing and dyeing of leather. The making of all those things to which leather naturally lends itself.

Ceramics—After considerable experiments involving the better part of a year, use might be made of the local clays, provided however, that a cheap method of glazing can be found.

To accomplish the above, buildings and a plant are required, neither of which are available in the vicinity. But, in the opinion of the Advisory Committee, not to take advantage of the traditional artistic background of Woodstock and its environs would be a short sighted procedure. The atmosphere and other values are incalculable and many outstanding artists, craftsmen and nationally known educators are resident who, if not able to give their services, would be able to supervise many activities on a part time basis.

The City of Kingston has very generously offered a splendidly situated tract of land of about 40 acres at $1 a year for 10 years. The tract is 1/2 of a mile from the center of Woodstock. On this property suitable buildings are being erected by the boys resident at the temporary center at Lake Hill. The first building to be completed will be a wood working plant. Several pieces of equipment have already been offered as contributions including a complete saw mill in running order. Many kinds of building material are available, stone, wood, etc., through the courtesy of various local bodies; and a number of buildings have already been demolished and salvaged to provide material for the project.

Area CMTC Group To Get Training In Adirondacks

Ulster county youths who sign up for the Citizen's Military Training Camp will go to Pine Camp at Great Bend in the Adirondacks, it was announced today.

An advanced field artillery course will be available there for 200 young men starting July 7. All camps operate for 30 days. Many other camps will open in New York state and New Jersey for young men from the ages of 17 to 24 of military quality.

"The military side is only one phase of the training," an army announcement said, "development of soldiers is not the principal objective. The purpose is to develop the manhood of the nation by bringing together many high types of youngsters under ideal conditions of outdoor life."

Whitney Begins His Second Term

Fallen Financier Hits 220 Pounds, Is Cheerful

Ossining, N. Y., April 12 (AP)—Apparently adjusted to a routine strange to his background, Richard Whitney, fallen financier, started today his second year in Sing Sing prison.

The one-time head of the New York Stock Exchange whose brokerage house went to the wall in a spectacular collapse in March, 1938, went quietly about his duties as clerk in the chief keeper's office. Prison officials described him as healthy, cheerful and 16 pounds heavier than when he was admitted.

Whitney, convict 94835, was sentenced to from five to 10 years in prison after he pleaded guilty to stealing funds entrusted to him. His minimum term, under the probation laws, is three years and four months.

Taken for Granted

Fellow-prisoners who were inclined to regard him as a visiting celebrity at first now take him for granted. Guards reported his relations with other convicts were cordial and courteous and that he was having "no trouble."

Whitney's job at the moment is to keep the tally count of prisoners five times a day, an important job in prison administration. In an effort to keep down his weight, Whitney exercises at every available opportunity, but the substantial prison fare and regular hours of sleep have boosted his weight to about 220 pounds.

After his turn at the usual menial tasks given to new prisoners, Whitney became an instructor in visual education in the prison school. He stayed on that job for several months and then was transferred to his present duties.

He goes frequently to the prison library for books of all kinds and newspapers and magazines.

Whitney has had few visitors during the year he has been here. Several lawyers visited him from time to time when he first came. His brother, George, a J. P. Morgan partner, has visited him twice.

His wife has been a visitor almost every week.

Local YMCA Drive To Begin April 25

Goal of Campaign Is Set at $12,120 This Year

The annual "business boosters budget campaign" of the Kingston Y. M. C. A. will open on Monday, April 25. It was announced today leaders of the four divisions are busy signing up their workers. The organization of the drive will consist of four divisions with 24 workers in each.

The initial gifts committee are already at work. This committee composed of A. L. Chambers, H. V. Clayton, Arthur Colligan, J. A. Guttridge, A. L. Hanstein, Lloyd LeFever, Ernest LeFever, Clifford Rose, C. S. Rowland, H. R. St. John, Clyde Wonderly, A. T. Young, Harry Walker and S. Maxwell Taylor. Acting as co-chairmen of the committee are C. S. Treadwell and A. B. Shufeldt.

Although the committee has been working for the past several days now, there has been no formal report made as yet. The chairman feel, however, that the work is progressing a little better than last year, there having been a number of increases in the subscriptions thus far gotten.

The goal for this year's campaign has been set at $12,120. In that is an item of $1,000 for repairs to the swimming pool. The state health laws have changed considerably since the pool was originally constructed. The repairs to be made are in accordance with the present regulations regarding such equipment. Plans for the necessary improvements have been drawn by Mr. Lowe and are in Albany now for approval of the state health department.

Adopting Word "Excelsior"

How the term "excelsior" came to be applied to long, fine wood shavings used as a packing material for eggs and other breakable objects is not known for certain. It is a purely American term and apparently originated as a trade name. Undoubtedly it is the same word as the comparative degree of the Latin "excelsus," which means elevated. Thus "Excelsior," the title of a well known poem by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, means still higher, more lofty or ever upward. New York state adopted the word as its motto. Aspen, cottonwood, basswood, willow, red gum, spruce and certain pines are the favorite woods used in the manufacture of excelsior, or wood wool as it is also called. The logs are first cut into blocks about 18 inches in length and the fibers are separated from the blocks by knife points. A cord of wood produces about 2,000 pounds of excelsior.

CHEST COLDS

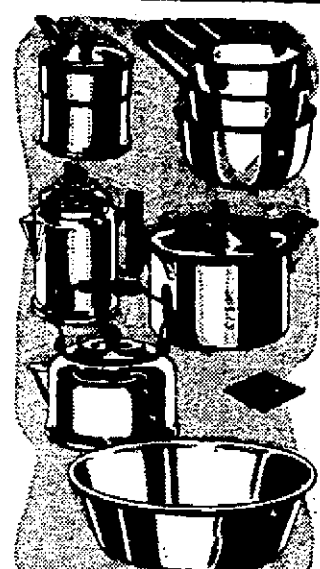

Here's Quick Relief from Their DISTRESS!

The annoying discomforts of a cold in chest or throat, generally ease when soothing, warming Musterole is applied. Better than a mustard plaster, Musterole gets action because it's NOT just for the skin. It's a "mustard-free" relief. It penetrates the surface skin and helps to quickly relieve lung congestion, aches and pains due to colds.

Home Relief Load Lessens in City

242 Fewer Families Are on Lists, Announces Public Welfare Department

According to the March report of the Department of Public Welfare there were 242 fewer families receiving home relief last month than there were in March, 1938.

The records of the welfare department show that in March of last year there were 539 families receiving home relief from the city, while in March of this year there had been a drop to 297 families who were receiving home relief.

The cost of home relief to the city during the past month was $12,789.30, which included administration expenses, medical attention, nursing care, food, shelter, fuel and other items of relief.

The cost in March, 1938, was $19,214.68, or a decrease the past month over March of last year of $6,425.38.

Captain Charles N. Behrens, director in charge of home relief, when seen at his office in the City Home today and questioned as to whether conditions were growing better, said he did not care to talk for publication.

He made it plain, however, that in his opinion there had been no let-up in the depression, and that conditions today were as bad as they were last year.

Jobs were not more plentiful this year than they were in 1938, and while there were nearly one-half less families on the home relief rolls last month than there were in 1938, no family in the city was permitted to go without food, shelter, clothing, and medical care when needed.

Whether conditions have improved or not, the past month's record shows that there were 242 less families on the home relief rolls of the city than there were in March of last year.

Weeks Is New Head Of Clinton Avenue Club

Chester B. Weeks was elected president of the Clinton Avenue Men's Club at the annual meeting held Monday evening. Other officers elected were: Vice president, Arthur S. Fatum; treasurer, Irving J. Wells; and secretary, Thomas W. Miller.

The retiring president, William R. Stall, presided at the business meeting which was followed by an evening of fun and frolic.

At the business meeting William R. Stall, Walter Hyatt and Raymond H. Parsells were elected directors.

In bringing to a close his last meeting as president of the club, Mr. Stall expressed his appreciation of the fine cooperation that had been given him by the club during the past year.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse anything else. At all drug stores. 10¢ and 25¢.

Tuberculosis Still A Serious Menace

Appeal for Cooperation Is Made to Leaders

An appeal for cooperation to leaders in this community was made today by Joseph M. Fowler, chairman of the Ulster county committee on tuberculosis and public health for the early diagnosis campaign which opened on April 1 and continued throughout the month.

"Tuberculosis continues to be a serious menace to public health in spite of the substantial gains made in its conquest," said Mr. Fowler. "Eight out of every ten persons admitted to sanatoria today are in advanced stages of the disease."

"Early tuberculosis is easy to cure, but can be found in most instances only through an X-ray examination. Our tuberculosis organization is urging us to unearth within our community those cases of tuberculosis which otherwise might not come to light until cure is more difficult. This our leaders can do by suggesting a physical examination to those whom we may suspect of harboring this disease, and who thereby become a source of contagion not only to their families but to the community as a whole."

Girl's Death Marks First Motor Fatality

The first fatal automobile accident in Greene county since last September occurred at Climax Tuesday morning when Marguerite Jane, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hamilton of that place, was struck by an automobile driven by William Widis, who is employed on the Lammman farm at Coxsackie.

One of the car wheels passed over the child's head. The driver of the car said that the girl ran into his car, and he did not see her until too late to avoid an accident.

$500,000 BOMBER UP IN SMOKE

This $500,000 North American attack bombing plane, built for possible purchase by the army, crashed and burned near Wright Field, Dayton, O. Three army officers in the ship were shaken up but not seriously hurt.

Woodstock School Group Tour Victor Cannon Farm

Woodstock, April 12.—Almost the entire student body of the Woodstock school were guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Cannon, who invited them to visit their farm, "Cannon's Ranch," on Overlook Mountain. The children spent the afternoon visiting the numerous barns and buildings which housed the many animals raised by the Cannons. Particularly interesting were the llamas. Last year the Cannons sold one of their llamas to Frank Buck but they still have several, including a baby llama. The honey bears, which were exhibited in the library fair two years ago have now grown too fierce for exhibition and were not on view Friday.

Fancy breeds of all sorts of animal life were admired by the children, including Swiss cattle, mountain goats, Shetland ponies, geese, ducks, chickens, a bull weighing 1,900 pounds, and hogs, one of which, weighing almost 1,000 pounds, was exhibited at the library fair two years ago. Mrs. Lillis Norton, teacher of the third and fourth grades, accompanied the boys and girls, as did several of the parents.

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to one's life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life.

Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

By L. L. STEVENSON

The roll call in Professor Konefsky's classes is from a roster written in Braille. He uses no notes at all. His assignments are prepared in advance and he finds notes unnecessary. Also he does not lecture to his classes. It is his belief that a student gets more by taking part in a class rather than merely listening and making notes. So he uses the recitation system. Only during examinations does he have an assistant. Then his secretary acts as general supervisor. The examinations over, she reads the papers to him and he marks the grades. Professor Konefsky looks on blindness more as a spur than a handicap.

Our World's fair, it seems, will have an effect on men's suits this year. At least, the New York Custom Cutters club at a recent meeting exhibited a snappy model called "The Dawn of Tomorrow," which, of course, is the fair's theme. It cut much fuller around the chest and the waistline is lower. Thus the wearer can swell with pride on something. The principal departure from usual custom, however, is that there are no hip pockets. That may be a hardship for bottle tooters but it's swell for those who like to jam their coat pockets with literature since, without the hip pockets, the canteen can do and still look neat and trim. So, at least so say the tailors.

Men whose height is from five feet to five feet eight are to get a built-up this year through the efforts of the tailors. It seems that in the past too much stress was laid on wide shoulders and other matters that increased the roly-poly effect. This year, trouser legs are to be longer and waistlines shorter, and thus the effect of increased elevation. But whether the new suit will enable a five-footer to look like a six-footer in the eye and tell him when he gets off, deponent says, not.

Just to bring this to a jumping off place, there is that Long Island drug store owner who can't figure out what his store should be selling. Customers being somewhat far apart, the delivery boy of the drug store is provided with a bicycle. When he comes in from a trip he's supposed to chain it by the weighing machine out front. He forgot to do that the other day with the result that the bicycle was stolen. But in this place was not a newer but a far more expensive machine. The druggist took the matter up with the police who, after failing to find the substituted bicycle on the stolen list, told him all he could do was keep it and use it until an owner turned up.

Mozart in Pauper's Grave
Mozart died poor and was buried in a common vault in the ground allotted to paupers, with the cemetery attendants standing by the grave. When his widow visited the cemetery a few weeks later, it was impossible for her to find definitely where he was buried. Several later attempts to locate his bones also failed. Mozart died of a malignant typhus fever, which may have been caused by his circumstances. His debts were contracted largely through his wife's repeated illnesses, but we find nothing to show that his family of four sons and two daughters suffered from malnutrition. There are fine monuments to Mozart in Vienna and in his birthplace, Salzburg.

Electric Crosses of Mourning
A unique form of public mourning was observed in New York city on the eve of the funeral of President Harding in 1923. More than a hundred large office buildings had their windows lighted, from dusk till dawn, says Collier's Weekly, so that they formed huge crosses of light, many of which were visible for miles.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 12 (AP)—The stock market scored a further comeback today from its war scare decline and many shares climbed one to four.

The rally played out after midday, however, and gains were pared a bit before the final hour. Dealings slowed to a mere trickle, with transactions running at the rate of about a million shares for a full session. Most of the business was done in the first two hours.

Corporate bonds joined stocks in the rebound. Hides, rubber and other commodities which had been sold on war fears also improved, though price changes mostly were small.

Brisk on the snap-back were such previously hard hit shares as International Harvester, Union Carbide, du Pont, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, Montgomery Ward and International Nickel.

Heading the rally on the curb were American Gas and Electric, Aluminum of America, Gulf Oil and Lockheed Aluminum, Ltd. was marked up sharply in a thin market.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 15 Broad street, New York city, branch office 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Heavy Selling in Early Session of Market Tuesday

After heavy selling during the first two hours of yesterday's stock market session that resulted in losses of over three points at noon on the part of industrial issues, the liquidation suddenly ceased, there was a general recovery and prices at the close showed but a small net loss for the day.

At the close industrial issues were off 0.28 point for the day to 123.75; rails had declined 0.01 point, to 24.73; utilities showed a gain of 0.25 point, to 21.20. Total transactions were 1,660,000 shares. Two stocks made new highs yesterday, while 289 issues registered new lows for 1939.

Opening of the New York market followed weakness in foreign financial centers. The London market, reopening after the long holiday, started with a general marking down of prices as a precautionary measure, but despite this there was considerable nervousness, particularly from the continent and the market closed weak, with the Financial Times industrial average off 1.8 points for the day. The Amsterdam Bourse was weak in inactive trading. Losses ranging to two points were shown on the Berlin Bourse.

Bonds followed the action of stocks and all but utility averages were off slightly. Commodities closed irregularly lower.

There is a possibility that U. S. Steel may show a slight balance for common stock as the result of operations in the quarter ended March 31. Such a showing would be the best for any quarter since that of September 30, 1937, when the corporation had net profit of $30,617,638 after all deductions.

In the last quarter of 1938 earnings were equal to $122 on preferred shares.

Carloadings last week are estimated to have dropped to 527,000 cars, from 604,241 the previous week. The falling off is ascribed wholly to the drop in soft coal shipments as a result of shutdowns of the mines.

The Delaware Supreme Court upheld a decision of a lower court awarding to Loft 91 per cent stock ownership in Pepsi Cola, 1936. Total is at least $23,512,500, of $15.96 a share on Loft capital stock outstanding at the close of 1938.

First quarter earnings of General American Transportation are placed at around 50 cents a share. Chairman Carlisle of Niagara Hudson Power told stockholders that with anything like restoration of normal business in this country there would be a return to earnings comparable with the good years of the past.

Standard Oil of Indiana had net income in 1938 of $27,771,937, or $1.82 a share, vs. net in 1937 of $55,950,784, or $3.66 a share.

Crown Cork & Seal, net of $1,213,227, or $1.37 a share, vs. $1,624,598, or $2.16 a share in preceding year. Chicago & North Western Railway showed net loss in 1938 of $15,394,101.

News of Interest to Fraternal

A regular meeting of Clinton Chapter No. 445, O. E. S., will be held at Masonic Hall, Wall street, on Friday evening, April 14. Regular business will be transacted and refreshments and a social hour, including the playing of darts and other games, will follow. All members of the Eastern Star and Masonic fraternities are invited to attend.

Rip Van Winkle Triangle, No. 81, will hold a public meeting Thursday evening at Masonic Hall, Wall street. At that time the newly elected officers will be installed by Junior Deputy Mary Smith. The meeting will be at 8 o'clock and all friends of the girls are invited to attend as well as Masons and members of the Eastern Star. A social hour will follow the meeting with refreshments.

Morgan Social Club

The Morgan Social Club held its regular monthly meeting in the club rooms on Cornell street last night. A program of summer activities was arranged including a club softball team. Candidates for the team are requested to be present at the Athletic Field Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock to try out for positions on the diamond.

Roosevelt to Sign Relief Measure

Presidential Approval Is Assured, Report Says, for 100-Million Bill

Washington, April 12 (AP)—A $100,000,000 emergency relief bill was on its way to the White House assured of Presidential approval, although it is $50,000,000 less than Mr. Roosevelt requested.

The Senate passed the measure without dissent last night after rejecting, 49 to 28, an amendment by Senator Pepper (D-Fla) to increase the sum by $50,000,000.

The fight over Pepper's proposal brought a sharp split in administration ranks. Democratic Leader Barkley supported the $100,000,000 allocation, and told the Senate he had agreed on that figure with a group of administration followers, economy-minded Democrats and Republicans.

If he lacked courage to bear his share of responsibility for the understanding, Barkley said, Senate Democrats should choose another leader.

"I think my record of the last six years shows that I'm not frightened at federal spending," the Kentuckian shouted to an attentive chamber. "If I had it in my power, I would order that $150,000,000 be appropriated."

The Kingston Business Men's Association will meet tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Farm Bureau Association, John street.

President William Hardenburgh desires a large attendance as there are several matters of extreme importance to be transacted at this meeting.

Tonight at the Kirkland Hotel the Board of Directors of the Kingston Business Men's Association will meet at 8 o'clock.

Village Destroyed

Cairo, April 12 (AP)—Fire, fanned by a gale, was reported today to have destroyed three villages in lower Egypt, killing 21 persons and injuring 63. The fire started yesterday from a spark blown from an open oven onto the thatched roof of a native dwelling.

Doubles Tourney To Roll Tuesday

A mixed doubles tournament, to be held next Tuesday evening, was organized last night at a meeting held at the Central Recreation Alley.

The mixed teams will roll three games next Tuesday night, and a meeting will be held directly after the games to decide whether the various combines care to form a regular mixed league.

Entry fees must be paid and registration made at the Central Recreation alleys no later than Friday night. All mixed doubles teams in the city are invited to participate.

Clavichord, Old Musical Instrument, Known in 1387

The oldest reference to a clavichord, an ancient musical instrument, was in 1387. It is a simple table-like structure, usually on four straight legs, quite similar to the square piano but different from the harpsichord and spinet in that the player was enabled by heavier or lighter touch to produce varying degrees of sound. The tone is produced by a small brass tangent which remains in contact with the wire and causes it to vibrate as long as the key is held down. The oldest clavichord known is in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and was made in 1387. These instruments lasted until the Nineteenth century, according to Alice R. Rollins in the Los Angeles Times.

The spinets or virginals, as they were often called, were at first played on tables and were trapezoidal in shape, allowing only room for the length of the strings. Later an oblong case was introduced. The name spinet was applied from the fact that one Giovanni Spinetti, a Venetian (1803), was the first to make use of the new shape.

These instruments are found in various forms—heptagonal or pentagonal, in some cases wing-shaped when the virginal was withdrawn for use and oblong when the case was nondetachable. The double spinet is credited to The Netherlands. These instruments were of the usual size, but at one side of the keyboard another smaller instrument was fitted into the case and could be played in this position or could be removed and played separately.

The makers often decorated the cases with hand-painted designs and inscriptions. A feature frequently seen in keyed instruments of this period is the inlaid strip of ivory in the black keys and carved decorations on the fronts are also typical.

Antiquity Veils Origin Of Popular Paste Foods

The origin of the paste family—macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, etc.—is pretty much of an international enigma. One story attributes the invention of macaroni to an Italian named Chico, whose tragic experience with a nose neighbor who discovered his secret is familiar to all, writes Lona Gilbert in the Los Angeles Times. Some authorities credit the dissemination of its recipe to Marco Polo. The Chinese have a legend which gives the glory to a woman.

It seems that, according to this version, a Chinese woman centuries ago was making bread under a tree when some leaves fell into the dough. To remove them, she forced the dough through a sieve. As it came out in strands, she conceived the idea of drying them in the sun instead of baking the loaves on hot stones as was the custom.

Whatever its origin, the paste family has been known favorably in both the Orient and Italy for many years and is growing in popularity here. The commercial making of the pastes started in this nation about 80 years ago. The product, recommended chiefly for infants and invalids, was sold in drug stores.

Madden Aces Trim Elstons for Boys' Recreation Title

The Madden Aces extinguished the Elston bid for junior basketball supremacy of the city last night in an opener at the Municipal Auditorium, handing the Elstons a sound drubbing to the tune of 28-6, thereby winning the Recreation Department trophy in the Boys' Recreation League.

Scoring was slow during the first half, and the Elstons drew ahead 5-4 at the half-time bell. During the last two periods the Aces found the range and easy going to run up 24 points to only one point scored by the Elstons during the last two periods on Tucker's free throw.

Last night's contest was much different than the two preceding games in the junior series. In these earlier meetings, the Elstons won the first 33-32, while the second one found the Maddens on top 22-21.

Williams, of the Elstons, helped the Madden cause when he pulled a "Corrigan" and layed up a deuce in the Madden basket. Larkin led the Aces with 10 points. Tucker's 3 were high for the Elstons.

Don Meade Will Ride in New York

New York, April 12 (AP)—Because he has convinced the jockey club stewards that his good intentions won't be used as paving blocks, and possibly because of his influential friends, Don Meade will ride again in New York.

Suspended in Florida some three years ago on a charge of betting on horses other than those he rode, in races in which he had a mount, Meade was reinstated there last winter. He booted his way back to become the nation's leading jockey at the Hialeah meeting although young Johnny Oros has passed him in the victory totals since then.

Yesterday he was granted a license to ride in New York and will return to the saddle on Mrs. W. Plunkett Stewart's Early Delivery in the Pompano Handicap which opens at Jamaica Saturday.

Meade had pinned his hopes on the New York Jockey Club, generally considered the most influential body in American racing. Since it granted him a license, along with a stern warning, it isn't likely he will have trouble now getting a license wherever he wants to ride.

If Col. E. R. Bradley, his former contract employer, has an entry in the Kentucky Derby, Meade probably will ride it. He also has been offered mounts in California and in Canada's King's Plate race at Toronto.

Boat Enthusiasts To Hold Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Kingston Power Boat Association will be held on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at Fischer's Casino on Abel street.

As there is very important business to be transacted and several new members will be welcomed to the association, Commodore Maurer will call the meeting promptly at 8 o'clock.

Final arrangements for the annual regatta, to be held sometime in July, will be made at this meeting.

Farmer Wyatt Leaves His Plow To Pitch And Brooklyn Pilot Says 'He Can't Miss'

By DILLON GRAHAM
AP Feature Service Sports Writer

Clearwater, Fla. — Mr. John Whitlow Wyatt looks like a farmer. He has that lean, weather-beaten, hardy appearance of a constant tiller of the soil. In fact, Mr. Wyatt is a farmer.

He also was, and is, a pitcher. Wyatt had just about decided to chuck baseball and return to his north Georgia farm for good when the Milwaukee ball club offered him more money than he could refuse. So he turned his mule and cows over to some of the other boys and went to chucking baseballs. He chucked and chucked and chucked his way right into the National league.

New Step
That was something new. Previously he was always chucking his way upstairs into the American league. He hopes he'll like the National league better than the American league liked him. It didn't like him.

Wyatt is an old man to be a rookie. He's 30. He has been knocking around baseball for a decade or so. Away back in 1930 he was up with Detroit. He fiddled around with the Tigers in 1931 and 1932 and went to the Chicago White Sox in 1933. They sent him to Kansas City in 1936 and he bounced back with Cleveland in 1937.

But he couldn't do any good. For while he had a sore arm, but the surgeons chipped some bones out five years ago and it hasn't bothered him since. Then for a while he didn't have much confidence.

And the main trouble, he says, was that he wasn't pitched regularly or enough. "My arm," he explains, "is the kind that has to be used regularly and frequently." Sometimes Detroit or Chicago or

Whitlow Has Control and Confidence

Cleveland would use him every day of one week as a relief pitcher and then wouldn't use him for another week or so. And his arm didn't like it. His arm doesn't like relief work anyhow. It's a starting arm.

Soured On Game
He was pretty sour on baseball when he finally agreed to go to Milwaukee last spring. He was tired of failures and was beginning to figure that as a baseball player he was a good farmer. But he went back and authored perhaps the greatest minor league performance in a decade. He had 23 wins, seven losses, nine shutouts and 26 complete games. And he had the marvelously low earned run average of 2.37. So Brooklyn gobbled him.

He has a much better curve now than he had before. His fast ball is good and so is his control. He has the confidence. He thinks he'll be a winner, if they pitch him regularly.

"He can't miss," says Manager Leo Durocher.
The Dodgers also have several other nifty rookie tossers—Hugh Casey from Memphis, Russ Evans from New Orleans and Bill Crouch from Nashville. Evans and Crouch won 21 games each. Casey won only 13, but he's been the best looker in spring drills.

Man Races Horse At Edmonton Fair

Edmonton, Alberta, April 12 (AP)—It sounds like a gag, but a man on foot is racing a horse in a six-day race at the Edmonton Fair Grounds and it's reported the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to animals has threatened to interfere if the horse isn't treated humanely.

Mrs. E. O. Greening, who owns the horse, My Prince, protested: "The horse enjoyed himself. He was still a handful at the end."

At any rate, the horse had made 65 laps around the half mile track when Mrs. Greening called it a day at 3 p. m. At that time the man, R. Bower, a 45-year-old war veteran, had run 75 laps and he kept going until the time limit, 6 p. m.

Cunningham Races Wooderson June 17

By GAYLE TALBOT
New York, April 12 (AP)—It will be a great surprise to me if Sydney Wooderson, the scatter-footed little Englishman, does not run the legs off Glenn Cunningham, top miler, in their long-awaited race at Princeton on June 17.

It has been my unimportant opinion for about four years that the frail-looking Londoner was the greatest miler in the world, capable of beating either Cunningham or Jack Lovelock, the great New Zealander, any time he met them in a special race.

I still think he would have won the 1,500-meters in the 1936 Olympics had it not been for an injured ankle, even though Lovelock raced to a record in that event.

You see, Wooderson came up the hard way. Lovelock already was famous when Wooderson, running for an obscure club team, first challenged the great Oxford captain.

The crowd at White City that day scarcely could credit its eyes when Wooderson came up in the stretch to pass Lovelock. Why, Wooderson wasn't even a "public school boy."

So they passed that one off as an accident. The mishap, except soon have been forgotten, except that the next time they met, Wooderson hit out and did it again. Lovelock was as puzzled as the next one.

"I was running the best I knew how," he said in his precise accent. "It looks like I simply can't beat him, doesn't it?"

Indeed it did, and Lovelock nor any other runner has since beat Wooderson when he had the full use of his thin legs. The records he has since set offer substantial proof of those victories over Lovelock were strictly on the level, little credit as he received for them even in England.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT
(By The Associated Press)
Boston—Tiger Jack Fox, 181, Spokane, Wash., and Al Gainer, 174½, New Haven, Conn., drew, (10).

New York—Jimmy Vaughn, 138½, Cleveland, and Tony Cannonieri, 140½, New York, former lightweight champion, drew (8).

Houston, Tex.—Wishy Jones, 134, Louisville, outpointed Willie Andrews, 135, New Haven, (10).

In a furiously contested battle last night at the Municipal Auditorium the Baltz Pajamanners turned back the Barmann Brewers, 36-30, to chalk up the first victory in the series for National Division championship in the City Basketball League.

The Uptown Merchants routed the Boston Cleaners in the American Division title play-offs, 29-18, to take the lead in their series.

Four Men Ousted
The Barmann-Baltz fray was marked by fouls galore, with Chet Baltz, "Beansy" Baltz, Herb Clarke, and Dickie Dykes being ousted on personals. Referee "Babe" Coughlin called a total of 26 personals on both teams, but had the game well under control throughout.

Baltz's got off to an early start, laying up three fields and a foul in the opening minutes. The Brewers found the basket before the end of the first period, however, to end that stanza only one point behind Baltz, 7-8. The Pajamanners' big drive came in the second period when they pulled away from the Brewers to close at half time leading 18-11.

Both teams played evenly during the last two periods, with Bruce holding up Baltz's end of the scoring. Bruce, a leading scorer throughout the season, was uncheckable last night, and rang up 13 of the 18 points scored by the Baltz quintet in the second half. He was leading scorer of the evening with five fields and eight fouls for a total of 18.

Zeeh, Gilday, and Cullum had six each for the Brewers.

Merchants Easy Winners
The Uptown Merchants had little difficulty in downing their American Division rivals, the Boston Cleaners. Starting off with an early attack the Uptown lads had scored 18 points to nine for the Cleaners at the halfway mark. The Merchants' lead was not threatened at any point in the contest, as Tommy Maines and Eddie Minasian led the Merchants' attack with 12 and eight points respectively. Markie was the high scorer for the Cleaners with eight points.

Title Bout Nears For Louis-Roper

Los Angeles, April 12 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis having decided to take the day off to rest, dignitaries of the fight game adjourned today to Challenger Jack Roper's training camp 85 miles north of Los Angeles.

Headed by Mike Jacobs and Tom Gallery, co-promoters of the Louis-Roper championship engagement here Monday night, the California Athletic Commission, experts and fans journeyed into the hill country for a peep at the 36-year-old aspirant to the heavyweight crown.

Jacobs watched Louis work out yesterday and came away none too impressed with the Detroit negro's condition.

Louis' handlers assured him nothing was wrong with the titleholder and said he was just holding back from hitting them sparring mates.

Fears that Roper might be overtrained were scouted by the challenger, who declared he felt "better than I ever did in my life."

House Passes Bill In Favor of FHA

Provides for More Powers and Raising of Limit on Mortgages

Washington, April 12 (AP)—The House passed and sent to the Senate today a bill extending for two years the powers of the Federal Housing Administration and raising from $3,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000 the amount of mortgages it may insure.

The FHA, seeking to stimulate the flow of money into the construction industry and provide low cost home financing, insures loans by private institutions for home building and renovation. Unless Congress continues its power, they expire on June 30.

Before passing the bill on a voice vote, the House accepted an amendment by Representative Cochran (D., Mo.) designed to prevent what he said was the writing up of land values by promoters of large apartment projects.

The Senate finance committee, meanwhile, gave speedy approval to an increase from $49,000,000 to $80,000,000 in authorized federal expenditures to pay state administrative costs for unemployment compensation.

Blossom Cavalcade As Part of Fete

This community committee is composed of Warren Smith, Kingston, chairman; Martin DuBois, New Paltz; C. G. A. Fischer, Ellenville; John J. Gaffney, Highland; Joseph E. Hasbrouck, Modena; LeGrand Haviland, Highland; Harold Macholdt, Woodstock; Charles Rogers, Marlborough; George W. Saile, Saugerties; Walter Williams, Rosendale.

John Roosa, Charles H. Hummer and A. E. Milliken were named as a committee to secure the attendance of a group of horseback riders.

Alderman Paul A. Zucca, former Mayor Eugene B. Carey and Joseph E. Hasbrouck are a committee to arrange for the attendance of the high school bands and arrange for other possible music. Mr. Carey thought that the Doodledorfs would be willing to turn out for the occasion.

Edmund R. Bower, 4-H agent, will look after the youth organization division and Sam Bernstein and Wilson V. Boyce were asked to take charge of arrangements for a creditable commercial display.

The parade will follow the exercises at Forsyth Park marking the coronation of the Apple Blossom Queen.

Senatorial Agreement
President Roosevelt's warm endorsement of a declaration that "free nations" of the world should make a deliberate show of strength to prevent war coincided today with evidence of senatorial agreement on temporary neutrality legislation.

Opposing senate forces, which long have disputed whether neutrality legislation attained its end or actually bred foreign troubles, seemed to be almost agreed on stop-gap re-enactment of the expiring "cash and carry" clause of the present neutrality act.

Mr. Roosevelt said yesterday that an editorial in the Washington Post (independent) was good, clear and honest in saying, among other things, that "nothing less than a show of preponderant force" would impress Italy and Germany in their ambitious efforts to expand.

The editorial, with emphasis on "panicky legislation" designed to keep America isolated, said:

"Most Americans realize today that the sweep of events has now brought Europe to the very verge of war. What is insufficiently realized is the tremendous implications of the impending catastrophe for every citizen of this country."

Jury Is Selected In Quarry Trial

P. J. Schreiber Case Opens in County Court; Callanan Firm Defendant

A jury was selected this morning in county court to hear the evidence in an action in negligence brought by Peter J. Schreiber, of South Rondout against the Callanan Road Improvement Co., Inc., operators of the stone quarry at Mingo Hollow in the town of Esopus. The box was filled shortly before noon and the case opened.

John W. DeWitt appears for the plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook for the defendant corporation.

Mr. Schreiber brings an action against the company to recover damages to his residence which he claims was caused through the negligent operation of the quarry and the setting off of excessive blasting operations at the quarry on the former Nitro Powder Company plant in Mingo Hollow.

The case has attracted wide attention because of the large number of claims which have been made by property owners in the lower section of this city and in the town of Esopus over the discharge of tons of dynamite at the quarry in blasting operations. The Schreiber case is the first one to make its appearance in court.

Several months ago a meeting was called at Fort Even and complaints made to the town board of the town of Esopus by irate property owners, who claimed property damage and asked that the town board take some official steps to stop the explosion of large quantities of dynamite, which they alleged, were wrecking their homes.

Mr. Schreiber claims that by the explosion of excessive charges and through the negligent manner in which operations are conducted at the quarry along the Rondout creek that his house which is more than half a mile away has been damaged seriously.

In the removal of rock, tons of explosives are set off at one operation and complaints have been made by residents of the lower section of the city across the creek from the quarry. Some residents in the West Chester street section of the city have complained to the police of the operations and many have been forced to leave their homes, they say, through fear of damage, during the explosion of the charges. Complaints of cracked walls and damaged furnishings have been filed.

The corporation defends the action on the grounds that the discharge of the explosive is necessary in the conduct of the business and that all due care is taken to prevent damage. It is denied that the work is carried on in a negligent manner. The corporation denied any responsibility through negligence.

days ago but the work is being greatly delayed by the unfavorable weather conditions.

Low temperatures and snow and rain made it extremely difficult to carry on the patching program, but it was planned to carry on the program for the following 30 days.

Bills were read and audited and the board then adjourned.

Low Temperatures Prevail in East

Mercury Drops Below 20 in Middle West

Chicago, April 12 (AP)—Abnormally low temperatures prevailed over most of the nation east of the Rocky Mountains today.

The coldest spots were Park Falls, Wis., Bemidji, Minn., and Aberdeen, S. D., each with eight above zero. The mercury dropped to the low 20's in northern Ohio and a blizzard whipped that section, including Cleveland.

Freezing temperatures extended as far south as the Texas Panhandle, also into northern Oklahoma, northern Arkansas and northwestern Tennessee.

In the east it was below freezing from Portland, Me., north and snow fell in Pittsburgh, Buffalo and northern New England. New York city had a low of 38.

Chicago's minimum of 21 at 5 a. m. was seven degrees below the previous record for April 12, recorded in 1900.

Since yesterday there has been snow in Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, flurries in Chicago and northern Illinois and in the other Great Lakes states.

A 32-mile northwest wind bore down on the city off Lake Erie. An inch of swirling snow soon covered the ground.

Street car, bus and private motor car traffic was slowed down as main traffic arteries acquired a glaze of ice.

Farmer Is Killed While Felling Tree Tuesday

Osman L. Phinney, 41, a farmer of Freehold, Greene county, was instantly killed Tuesday afternoon when a tree he and Edwin Calvin were cutting down fell unexpectedly. The large tree struck Mr. Phinney, driving his body into the ground.

It took some time to remove the tree and get the body out of the ground. Dr. Curtis Lacy of Freehold found that Mr. Phinney had suffered a fractured skull and his back and both legs were broken.

year, and in the not too far distant future we may confidently look forward to a clean river."

Opposition by Mayor Heiselman to immediate commencement of construction of a disposal plant is based upon the additional financial burden it would place upon the city. The cost of such a project to Kingston, it has been estimated, would be at least $400,000. Two plants would be required for Kingston, with an annual cost of maintenance in the neighborhood of $12,000.

For similar financial reasons, Poughkeepsie, Beacon, Newburgh, Peekskill and other communities along the Hudson river have also voiced opposition to being forced to begin construction of sewage disposal plants.

Schirick to Hold Special Session

An adjourned regular special term of Supreme Court will be held Friday by Justice Harry E. Schirick and consequently the county court now in session will not convene Friday. Jurors not engaged on the case now on trial were excused by County Judge Frederick G. Traver until Monday at 2 o'clock.

The special term of Supreme Court was adjourned last Friday by Justice Schirick because of Good Friday. Matters set down for last Friday will be heard this week Friday.

Boost Campaign Meets Approval

City Business Association Voices Satisfaction With Venture

Members of the Central Business Men's Association reported themselves as well pleased with the current merchandising campaign, at a meeting of the group held in the local Y. M. C. A. last evening.

Herman G. Rafalowsky, chairman of the "Boost Central Broadway" drive, now under way, indicated that reports to him were generally satisfactory and he said the committee had decided to allow five votes on all 25-cent purchases for the remainder of the contest which ends May 17.

The awards will be made Thursday evening, May 18, at the Broadway Theatre.

Action was deferred on a plan outlined by A. J. Kenyon, of New York, to advertise Kingston on the highways to attract visitors to the "World's Fair."

The association voted unanimously to support the Second Annual Apple Blossom Festival to be held May 6. The association subscribed to a $5 membership and several members purchased individual memberships.

The meeting was conducted by Harry B. Walker, president.

The Caskill Mountain Funeral Directors' Association will meet at 6 o'clock this evening at the Les Lillas Inn at Mt. Marion for the monthly business session. Following the meeting dinner will be served and will be followed by dancing and entertainment.

Paul Zucca and his orchestra will furnish the music for the evening, and Paul Yocum and members of his dance studio will entertain.

The wives and friends of the members of the association will attend the dancing and entertainment.

Miller Resigns County Position

Lomontville Man Is No Longer President of Conservation Group

John J. Miller of Lomontville, who succeeded Holt N. Winfield the first of the year as a member of the Internal Revenue Department staff when Mr. Winfield became president of the Kingston Savings Bank, has resigned his position as president of the Ulster County Agricultural Conservation Association.

Mr. Miller has held the position of president of the Conservation Association since its formation and resigns now because of other duties. His resignation was presented and accepted at a meeting of the committee at the Farm Bureau office here on Monday evening.

Since its formation the County Conservation Association has paid out to approximately 1,200 farmers in the county the sum of $160,000.

Frank E. Gaffney, Sr., of Highland succeeds Mr. Miller as president of the association and as chairman of the county committee. Harry J. Beatty of Hurley avenue, Kingston, becomes vice-chairman and John L. Schoonmaker of Accord takes Mr. Miller's place as chairman of the Rondout Valley Community Conservation Committee.

Funds distributed by the committee are a part of the Federal Farm program.

Mr. Miller has also resigned as a director of the Mid-Hudson Egg Auction which he assisted in organizing and in which he has been actively interested.

George's Rest
George Bunker of Highland has filed a certificate with the county clerk, stating that he is doing a business at the Bridge Circle, town of Lloyd, under the name and style of George's Rest.

Plaintiffs Given Accident Verdict

Mr. and Mrs. Pruss Are Favored by Ruling

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pruss of Gardiner were awarded a verdict in county court today arising out of an accident which took place on September 8, 1938, at New Paltz when their car was sideswiped by a car operated by Cecil E. Russell of New Paltz, who is employed at the Wallkill Medium Security Prison.

Mr. Pruss was awarded $83.65 and his wife was given a verdict of $200 for injuries suffered. It was alleged by plaintiffs that they had started home from New Paltz when the Russell car sideswiped their machine near the Catholic Church in New Paltz, throwing Mrs. Pruss through the windshield of their Chrysler car inflicting injuries. Mr. Pruss sought damages to his car.

Peter H. Harp appeared for the plaintiffs and there was no defense offered. The witness told Judge Traver and a jury that the Pruss car was damaged to the extent of $167.65 and that doctor bills amounting to $25 were contracted and $16 was spent for help in the house while Mrs. Pruss was laid up.

Russell, after the crash, left the scene and was picked up by Corporal Norman Baker about three miles from the scene of the accident toward Highland. He was convicted of driving a car while intoxicated. Later he agreed to pay for damage done and signed an agreement which was offered in evidence. Of a total of $208.65 he has paid $125 leaving the $83.65 balance. In addition Mrs. Pruss brought an action for her injuries, asking $200. The jury returned a verdict for the full amount.

Mayor Is Host to K.H.S. Civics Students on Tour

Mayor C. J. Heiselman entertained the members of his civics class of the Kingston High School today when a tour of the public buildings was made under his supervision, and later in the day the students were taken for a motor ride around the Kingston water shed.

The civics students in the high school are again this year studying city government, and several weeks ago a class was given instructions by Mayor Heiselman, while other groups studied various phases of government under the direction of the heads of the various city departments.

The members of the civics class will later hold an election at the high school to elect a student mayor and other student officials to have charge of the city government for one day.

County Papers To Push Fete

Ulster Representatives To Form Committee

A representative from each of the various newspapers of Ulster county will form the publicity committee for the second annual Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival. This was decided at a meeting held at the Governor Clinton Hotel last night, called by Edward M. Huben, chairman of publicity for the festival.

The Farm Bureau office was designated as headquarters to which all news items regarding the festival should be sent. Chairman Huben asked that all festival publicity regarding the festival and travel bureaus, broadcasting sources and similar agencies will be contacted.

It was stated that plans are being formed to furnish out of the county newspapers with publicity regarding the festival and travel bureaus, broadcasting sources and similar agencies will be contacted.

There are, now at the center, 32 boys from various New York state communities. These boys have been selected by special recommendation of their supervisors.

Ground Is Broken For Youth Center

ational and recreational program is already under way.

Experience in the CCC and the NYA has shown that funds to purchase in the open market raw materials necessary to carry on the real program of craft training permitting participation for every individual would represent an exorbitant figure. Such experience has likewise proved that the acquiring, or even borrowing of material from surplus lists and other sources takes considerable time, at best a year to assemble and store. Hence, to resolve these difficulties into terms which might approach the requirements of the NYA certain basic changes have had to be made in the original conception.

"Since the greatest difficulties arise in the realm of usable materials," said W. D. Phelps, director of the center and former director of the Industrial Arts Division of the C. C. C. at Governors Island, "why not recognize that fact by aiming the program directly at the production of the needed raw materials and in so doing provide an abundance of such things for future training? In reality this is the way that craft instruction always has and always should begin. Apprenticeship training in all ages has started with a lowly but increasingly complete understanding of the materials involved."

Recalling the pertinent items most readily obtainable from surplus lists and other sources, I would suggest that leather and wood as the three most promising elements for a start. Other materials such as metal and various plastics should be continuously acquired, looking forward to the day when such types of training could be instituted."

Contemplated Training
The following training program is contemplated as various buildings are completed:

Wood—The drying and caring for lumber, carpentry, joinery, cabinet making and good experience in the use and handling of wood in all its phases.

Wool—The dyeing of yarn, all manner of weaving and knitting.

Leather—The finishing and dyeing of leather. The making of all those things to which leather naturally lends itself.

Ceramics—After considerable experiments involving the better part of a year, use might be made of the local clays, provided however, that a cheap method of glazing can be found.

To accomplish the above, buildings and a plant are required, neither of which are available in the vicinity. But, in the opinion of the Advisory Committee, not to take advantage of the traditional artistic background of Woodstock and its environs would be a short sighted procedure. The atmosphere and other values are incalculable and many outstanding artists, craftsmen and nationally known educators are resident who, if not able to give their services, would be able to supervise many activities on a part time basis.

The City of Kingston has very generously offered a splendidly situated tract of land of about 40 acres at $1 a year for 10 years. The tract is 3/4 of a mile from the center of Woodstock. On this property suitable buildings are being erected by the boys resident at the temporary center at Lake Hill. The first building to be completed will be a wood working plant. Several pieces of equipment have already been offered as contributions including a complete saw mill in running order. Many kinds of building material are available, stone, wood, etc., through the courtesy of various local bodies, and a number of buildings have already been demolished and salvaged to provide material for the project.

Our Growing Population
The following births have been reported to the board of health:

Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Wiegert of St. Remy, a daughter, Jacquelin Lorraine, in Kingston Hospital.

Area CMTC Group To Get Training In Adirondacks

Ulster county youths who sign up for the Citizen's Military Training Camp will go to Pine Camp at Great Bend in the Adirondacks, it was announced today.

An advanced field artillery course will be available there for 200 young men starting July 7. All camps operate for 30 days. Many other camps will open in New York state and New Jersey for young men from the ages of 17 to 24 who qualify.

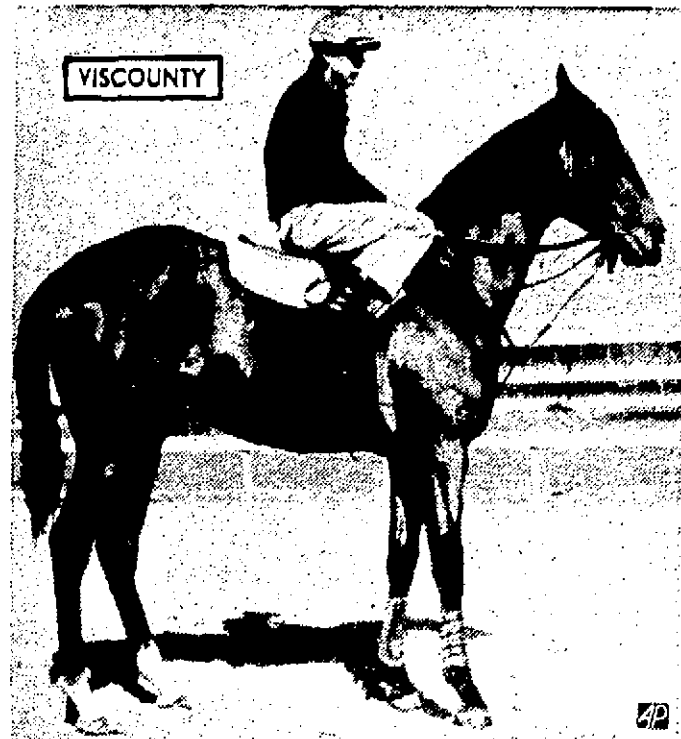

"The military side is only one phase of the training," an army announcement said, "development of soldiers is not the principal objective. The purpose is to develop the manhood of the nation by bringing together many high types of youngsters under ideal conditions of outdoor life."

Home Relief Load Lessens in City

242 Fewer Families Are on Lists, Announces Public Welfare Department

According to the March report of the Department of Public Welfare there were 242 fewer families receiving home relief last month than there were in March, 1938.

The records of the welfare department show that in March of last year there were 539 families receiving home relief from the city, while in March of this year there had been a drop to 297 families who were receiving home relief.

The cost of home relief to the city during the past month was $12,789.30, which included administration expenses, medical attention, nursing care, food, shelter, fuel and other items of relief. The cost in March, 1938, was $19,214.68, or a decrease the past month over March of last year of $6,425.38.

Captain Charles N. Behrens, director in charge of home relief, when seen at his office in the City Home today and questioned as to whether conditions were growing better, said he did not care to talk for publication.

He made it plain, however, that in his opinion there had been no let-up in the depression, and that conditions today were as bad as they were last year.

Jobs were not more plentiful this year than they were in 1938, and while there were nearly one-half less families on the home relief rolls last month than there were in 1938, no family in the city was permitted to go without food, shelter, clothing, and medical care when needed.

Whether conditions have improved or not, the past month's record shows that there were 242 less families on the home relief rolls of the city than there were in March of last year.

Weeks Is New Head Of Clinton Avenue Club

Chester B. Weeks was elected president of the Clinton Avenue Men's Club at the annual meeting held Monday evening. Other officers elected were: Vice president, Arthur S. Fatum; treasurer, Irving J. Wells, and secretary, Thomas W. Miller.

The retiring president, William R. Stall, presided at the business meeting which was followed by an evening of fun and frolic.

At the business meeting William R. Stall, Walter Hyatt and Raymond H. Parsells were elected directors. In bringing to a close his last meeting as president of the club, Mr. Stall expressed his appreciation of the fine cooperation that had been given him by the club during the past year.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Colored—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse anything else. At all drug stores, 10¢ and 25¢.

Tuberculosis Still A Serious Menace

Appeal for Cooperation Is Made to Leaders

An appeal for cooperation to leaders in this community was made today by Joseph M. Fowler, chairman of the Ulster county committee on tuberculosis and public health for the early diagnosis campaign which opened on April 1 and continued throughout the month.

"Tuberculosis continues to be a serious menace to public health in spite of the substantial gains made in its conquest," said Mr. Fowler. "Eight out of every ten persons admitted to sanatoria today are in advanced stages of the disease."

"Early tuberculosis is easy to cure, but can be found in most instances only through an X-ray examination. Our tuberculosis organization is urging us to unearth within our community those cases of tuberculosis which otherwise might not come to light until cure is more difficult. This our leaders can do by suggesting a physical examination to those whom we may suspect of harboring this disease, and who thereby become a source of contagion not only to their families but to the community as a whole."

Girl's Death Marks First Motor Fatality

The first fatal automobile accident in Greene county since last September occurred at Climax Tuesday morning when Marguerite Jane, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hamilton of that place, was struck by an automobile driven by William Widdis, who is employed on the Lampan farm at Coxsack.

One of the car wheels passed over the child's head. The driver of the car said that the girl ran into his car, and he did not see her until too late to avoid an accident.

Woodstock School Group Tour Victor Cannon Farm

Woodstock, April 12 — Almost the entire student body of the Woodstock school were guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Cannon, who invited them to visit their farm, "Cannon's Ranch," on Overlook Mountain. The children spent the afternoon visiting the numerous barns and buildings which housed the many animals raised by the Cannons. Particularly interesting were the llamas. Last year the Cannons sold one of their llamas to Frank Buck but they still have several, including a baby llama. The honey bears, which were exhibited in the library fair two years ago have now grown too fierce for exhibition and were not on view Friday.

Fancy breeds of all sorts of animal life were admired by the children, including Swiss cattle, mountain goats, Shetland ponies, geese, ducks, chickens, a bull weighing 1,900 pounds, and hogs, one of which, weighing almost 1,000 pounds, was exhibited at the library fair two years ago. Mrs. Lillis Norton, teacher of the third and fourth grades, accompanied the boys and girls, as did several of the parents.

College Women Hear Theatre Group Plans Of Chinese Life Meeting, Try-Outs

Miss Ruth Linn Fraser, secretary of the Y. W. C. A. of Newburgh, addressed the members of the College Women's Club last evening at the regular monthly meeting held at The Huntington. Miss Fraser gave an extremely interesting talk on "Life of the Chinese Women," using personal experiences during her 10 years in China with the Y. W. C. A. Miss Fraser discussed the ultimate career aim for the Chinese woman, marriage, which is a real career, especially if the woman is the wife of the eldest son. By virtue of her position, she thus becomes a dowager in her own right and oversees all the women in the household and the care and education of the children and grandchildren, and adding pomp and responsibility to her position. The speaker also spoke of the changes made by the Nationalist government with its progressive effects on education and health. She gave illustrations of the trend away from foot binding, the rise of physical education, normal schools for women and the stand being taken against concubinage.

In speaking of culture and education, she said that they are not closely associated as in this country. While Chinese women of the upper class might be uneducated, they would never be uncultured. Creatively few women are engaged in business or professions, those who are, being doctors, nurses or teachers. Preceding the address there was a short business meeting at which time it was voted to have the club again sponsor a lecture in connection with the scholarship fund. Mrs. William F. Murray, Mrs. Doris Monroe and Mrs. Theodore Peck will be in charge of the arrangements.

Two special group meetings were announced: Mrs. Irwin Jennings announcing the last meeting of the Book Group to be held April 19 at the home of Mrs. Harry Halverson, and Miss Ione Kinkade announcing the next meeting of the Bible Study Group as being April 26 at the home of Mrs. Charles Arnold.

Following the meeting refreshments were served. Hostesses for the evening were Jack Rabin, Mrs. Hubert Hoderath, Miss Ethel M. Hull, Miss Bella Hyman, Mrs. Irwin Jennings, Miss Ione Kinkade, Mrs. William Kraft, Dr. Elizabeth Parsons, Mrs. Wilson Norwood, Miss Mary E. Noone, Miss Gladys Nickerson, Mrs. William F. Murray and Miss Helen Smith.

Mrs. Rose Witter New Lowell Club Head

Mrs. Rose K. Witter of Fair Street was elected president of the Lowell Literary Club for the ensuing year at the meeting held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Delaplane on Albany avenue. Mrs. Witter succeeded Miss L. May Quimby.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. Clyde E. Wonderly, vice-president; Mrs. Virgil Van Wageningen, secretary, and Miss Anna D. Quimby, treasurer.

The club will hold its annual banquet next Tuesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 6:30 o'clock. Arrangements for the banquet are in charge of the program committee, Mrs. Margaret Conklin, chairman, Mrs. Arthur Cole, Mrs. William Fessenden and Mrs. James Gutridge.

Lowell club will conclude this year's activities with the banquet next week.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Samuel Konefsky is blind. He lost his sight in a wagon accident in Warsaw when he was a small boy. In 1926, he came to America with his parents and at once took up the study of Braille and typing. Then he went to Brooklyn high school. There he completed a four-year course in three and was graduated with honors. Brooklyn college came next. Not only did he keep up with his various studies but found time to engage in school activities. He was a member of the debating team and also did research work in subjects pertaining to government. He was elected to the honor society, was on the dean's honor list and was graduated cum laude. His ambition was to become a college teacher. Now three nights a week he conducts three classes in government, with more than a hundred students, in the college from which he graduated. Days, he works for a Ph. D. degree at Columbia university.

The roll call in Professor Konefsky's classes is from a roster written in Braille. He uses no notes. All his assignments are prepared in advance and he finds notes unnecessary. Also he does not lecture to his classes. It is his belief that a student gets more by taking part in a class rather than merely listening and making notes. So he uses the recitation system. Only during examinations does he have an assistant. Then his secretary acts as a general supervisor. The examinations over, she reads the papers to him and he marks the grades. Professor Konefsky looks on blindness more as a spur than a handicap.

While on the subject, here is a letter from a sightless friend: "A blind man's New York is all sound and touch. He knows Broadway mostly by obstacles that his cane encounters and by the swell of numerous voices. Tapping along, he listens—he never passes any one but every one passes him. He hears snatches of conversation which, standing alone, are meaningless. But a blind man must grasp frantically at these wisps for sustenance. So from hundreds of fleeting phrases he builds up a picture of the great city of which he is a part."

Our World's fair, it seems, will have an effect on men's suits this year. At least, the New York Custom Cutters club at a recent meeting exhibited a snappy model called "The Dawn of Tomorrow," which, of course, is the fair's theme. It is cut much fuller around the chest and the waistline is lower. Thus the wearer can swell with pride or something. The principal departure from usual custom, however, is that there are no hip pockets. That may be a hardship for bottle tooters but it's swell for those who like to jam their coat pockets with literature since, without the hip pockets, they can do so and still look neat and tatty—or at least so say the tailors.

Men whose height is from five feet to five feet eight are to get a build-up this year through the efforts of the tailors. It seems that in the past too much stress was laid on wide shoulders and other matters that increased the roly-poly effect. This year, trouser legs are to be longer and waistlines shorter, and thus the effect of increased elevation. But whether the new suits will enable a five-footer to look a six-footer in the eye and tell him where he gets off, deponent sayeth not.

Just to bring this to a jumping off place, there is that Long Island drug store owner who can't figure out why a thief should leave behind something more valuable than he took. Customers being somewhat far apart, the delivery boy of the drug store is provided with a bicycle. When he comes in from a trip, he's supposed to chain it by the weighing machine out front. He forgot to do that the other day with the result that the bicycle was stolen. But in its place was not only a newer but a far more expensive machine. The druggist took the matter up with the police who, after failing to find the substituted bicycle on the stolen list, told him all he could do was keep it and use it until an owner turned up. e Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Mozart in Pauper's Grave

Mozart died poor and was buried in a common grave in the ground allotted to paupers, with only the cemetery attendants standing by the grave. When his widow visited the cemetery a few weeks later, it was impossible for her to find definitely where he was buried. Several later attempts to locate his bones also failed. Mozart died of a malignant typhus fever, which may have been induced by his circumstances. His debts were contracted largely through his wife's repeated illnesses, but we find nothing to show that his family of four sons and two daughters suffered from malnutrition. There are fine monuments to Mozart in Vienna and in his birthplace, Salzburg.

Carpino Is Given Three Months for Policy Violation

Suspended Term Revoked for Subsequent Actions; Osterhoudt Will Go to Elmira Reformatory

Joseph Carpino of Kingston found Tuesday that a suspended sentence could suddenly be an active sentence if the defendant failed to continue "good behavior" as instructed by the court.

Carpino some time ago was charged with possession of policy slips and as a result was given a suspended sentence by County Judge Frederick G. Traver. One of the conditions imposed was that the defendant refrain from law violations and that his conduct be good.

Tuesday afternoon because of failure to keep out of trouble Carpino was sentenced to three months in jail for policy slip possession. The former suspension of sentence was revoked by the court and Carpino was remanded to the custody of Sheriff Molyneux to serve the term in jail.

During Good Behavior
In revoking the suspension Judge Traver told the defendant that suspension of sentence did not mean that the party went free, it was suspension during good behavior and there was no need to have a trial before the suspension went into effect. Whether a suspended sentence was revoked and the defendant made to serve the term depended entirely upon the defendant's conduct, any violation could bring the sentence into effect as Carpino had found.

Amedeo Cercone, who was jointly indicted with Carpino for possession of policy slips, on his plea of guilty was fined $200 or for failure to pay the fine he must spend one day in jail for each $2 of the fine remaining unpaid. In addition he was given a three months suspended jail sentence and warned to keep out of future trouble or his fate would be that of Carpino. He was placed on probation.

Kenneth Osterhoudt, indicted for grand larceny, second degree, for the taking of a ring from his employer was sentenced to Elmira Reformatory but sentence was suspended during good behavior. N. LeVan Haver appeared for Osterhoudt. In suspending sentence it was stated that Osterhoudt had returned the ring and had returned to the employ of the man from whose property the ring was taken. The complainant requested that no further action be taken in the matter. Osterhoudt was placed on probation. Juries will return this morning at 10 o'clock, the time to which they were excused.

Sentences Tomorrow

Sentences in the Floyd Weeks case and in the Dora Wilkins case will be pronounced at 2 o'clock tomorrow.

The plea of guilty entered by Weeks Tuesday came as a surprise after a long legal battle. Weeks pleading to assault, first degree, faces a ten year term in prison but because of circumstances and his own physical condition it is likely that he will receive a light sentence or a suspension. He had already served about a year in jail prior to being admitted to bail. Thomas J. Plunket and Chris J. Flanagan have represented Weeks. Efforts to have the case put over the present term on a plea that the defendant's one important witness was ill, failed and District Attorney Cleon B. Murray was ready to move the case for trial today when Weeks indicated his intention Tuesday to plead to the lesser count of the indictment which named attempted murder and assault. It was charged he is responsible for the death of his aged uncle, Henry Weeks, who died following drinking liquor in which poison had been placed. The charge dates back to 1935.

Local Poultrymen To Hold Meeting

Farm Bureau Committee Engages Prof. C. E. Lee

The next in the series of county-wide poultry meetings, arranged by the Farm Bureau poultry committee, will be held at 8 o'clock Monday evening, April 17, in the county building, 71 John street, Kingston. The speaker will be Professor C. E. Lee, representing the Beacon Milling Co., of Cayuga.

Professor Lee will show motion pictures and speak on "Better Poultry Management for 1939."

All poultrymen are cordially invited to attend this meeting.

This is the fourth meeting in the winter series to which all poultrymen of the county are invited. The attendance has been unusually good. The series takes the place of the two-day school arranged during previous years. The committee will welcome suggestions which will help make these meetings better serve the needs of Ulster county poultrymen.

Doubles Tourney To Roll Tuesday

A mixed doubles tournament, to be held next Tuesday evening, was organized last night at a meeting held at the Central Recreation Alley.

The mixed teams will roll three games next Tuesday night, and a meeting will be held directly after the games to decide whether the various combines care to form a regular mixed league.

Entry fees must be paid and registration made at the Central Recreation alleys no later than Friday night. All mixed doubles teams in the city are invited to participate.

Clavichord, Old Musical

Instrument, Known in 1387

The oldest reference to a clavichord, an ancient musical instrument, was in 1387. It is a simple tabletlike structure, usually on four straight legs, quite similar to the square piano but different from the harpsichord and spinet in that the player was enabled by heavier or lighter touch to produce varying degrees of sound. The tone is produced by a small brass tangent which remains in contact with the wire and causes it to vibrate as long as the key is held down.

The oldest clavichord known is in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and was made in 1577. These instruments lasted until the nineteenth century, according to Alice R. Rollins in the Los Angeles Times.

The spinets or virginals, as they were often called, were at first played on tables and were trapezoidal in shape, allowing only room for the length of the strings. Later an oblong case was introduced. The name spinet was applied from the fact that one Giovanni Spinetti, a Venetian (1593), was the first to make use of the new shape.

These instruments are found in various forms—trapezoidal or pentagonal, in some cases wing-shaped when the virginal was withdrawn for use and oblong when the case was nondetachable. The double spinet is credited to The Netherlands. These instruments were of the usual size, but at one side of the keyboard another smaller instrument was fitted into the case and could be played in this position or could be removed and played separately.

The makers often decorated the cases with handsome paintings and inscriptions. A feature frequently seen in keyed instruments of this period is the inlaid strip of ivory in the black keys and carved decorations on the fronts are also typical.

Antiquity Veils Origin

Of Popular Paste Foods

The origin of the paste family—macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, etc.—is pretty much of an international enigma. One story attributes the invention of macaroni to an Italian named Chico, whose tragic experience with a nose neighbor who discovered his secret is familiar to all, writes Lona Gilbert in the Los Angeles Times. Some authorities credit the dissemination of its recipe to Marco Polo. The Chinese have a legend which gives the glory to a woman.

It seems that, according to this version, a Chinese woman centuries ago was making bread under a tree when some leaves fell into the dough. To remove them, she forced the dough through a sieve. As it came out in strands, she conceived the idea of drying them in the sun instead of baking the loaves on hot stones as was the custom.

Whatever its origin, the paste family has been known favorably in both the Orient and Italy for many years and is growing in popularity here. The commercial making of the pastes started in this nation about 80 years ago. The product, recommended chiefly for infants and invalids, was sold in drug stores.

Madden Aces Trim Elstons for Boys' Recreation Title

The Madden Aces extinguished the Elston bid for junior basketball supremacy of the city last night in an opener at the Municipal Auditorium, handing the Elstons a sound drubbing to the tune of 29-6, thereby winning the Recreation Department trophy in the Boys' Recreation League.

Scoring was slow during the first half, and the Elstons drew ahead 5-4 at the half-time bell. During the last two periods the Aces found the range and easy going to run up 24 points to only one point scored by the Elstons during the last two periods on Tucker's free throw.

Last night's contest was much different than the two preceding games in the junior series. In these earlier meetings, the Elstons won the first 33-32, while the second one found the Maddens on top 22-21.

Williams, of the Elstons, helped the Madden cause when he pulled a "Corrigan" and layed up a deuce in the Madden basket. Larkin led the Aces with 10 points. Tucker's 3 were high for the Elstons.

Don Meade Will Ride in New York

New York, April 12 (AP)—Because he has convinced the jockey club stewards that his good intentions won't be used as paving blocks, and possibly because of his influential friends, Don Meade will ride again in New York.

Suspended in Florida some three years ago on a charge of betting on horses other than those he rode, in races in which he had a mount, Meade was reinstated there last winter. He booted his way back to become the nation's leading jockey at the Hialeah meeting although young Johnny Oros has passed him in the victory totals since then.

Yesterday he was granted a license to ride in New York and will return to the saddle on Mrs. W. Plunkett Stewart's Early Delivery in the Pompano Handicap when the metropolitan season opens at Jamaica Stadium.

Meade had pinned his hopes on the New York Jockey Club, generally considered the most influential body in American racing. Since it granted him a license, along with a stern warning, it isn't likely he will have trouble now getting a license wherever he wants to ride.

If Col. E. R. Bradley, his former contract employer, has an entry in the Kentucky Derby, Meade probably will ride it. He also has been offered mounts in California and in Canada's King's Plate race at Toronto.

Farmer Wyatt Leaves His Plow To Pitch And Brooklyn Pilot Says 'He Can't Miss'

By DELTON GRAMAM
AP Feature Service Sports Writer

Clearwater, Fla. — Mr. John Whitlow Wyatt looks like a farmer. He has that lean, weather-beaten, hardy appearance of a constant tiller of the soil. In fact, Mr. Wyatt is a farmer.

He also was, and is, a pitcher. Wyatt had just about decided to chuck baseball and return to his north Georgia farm for good when the Milwaukee ball club offered him more money than he could refuse. So he turned his mule and cows over to some of the other boys and went to chucking baseballs. He chucked and chucked and chucked his way right into the National league.

New Step
That was something new. Previously he was always chucking his way upstairs into the American league. He hopes he'll like the National league better than the American league liked him. It didn't like him.

Wyatt is an old man to be a rookie. He's 30. He has been knocking around baseball for a decade or so. Away back in 1930 he was up with Detroit. He fiddled around with the Tigers in 1931 and 1932 and went to the Chicago White Sox in 1933. They sent him to Kansas City in 1936 and he bounced back with Cleveland in 1937.

But he couldn't do any good. For awhile he had a sore arm, but the surgeons chipped some bones out five years ago and it hasn't bothered him since. Then for a while he didn't have much confidence.

And the main trouble, he says, was that he wasn't pitched regularly or enough. "My arm," he explains, "is the kind that has to be used regularly and frequently." Sometimes Detroit or Chicago or

Cleveland would use him every day of one week as a relief pitcher and then wouldn't use him for another week or so. And his arm didn't like it. His arm doesn't like relief work anyhow. It's a starting arm.

Soured On Game
He was pretty sour on baseball when he finally agreed to go to Milwaukee last spring. He was tired of failures and was beginning to figure that as a baseball player he was a good farmer. But he went back and authored perhaps the greatest minor league performance in a decade. He had 23 wins, seven losses, nine shutouts and 26 complete games. And he had the marvelously low earned run average of 2.37. So Brooklyn gobbled him.

He has a much better curve now than he had before. His fast ball is good and so is his control. And he has the confidence. He thinks he'll be a winner, if they pitch him regularly.

"He can't miss," says Manager Leo Durocher.
The Dodgers also have several other nifty rookie tossers—Hugh Casey from Memphis, Russ Evans from New Orleans and Bill Crouch from Nashville. Evans and Crouch won 21 games each. Casey won only 13, but he's been the best looker in spring drills.

In the first docket of elimination games of the Gold Medal basketball tournament at the Y. M. C. A. last night the quintets of Battery A, Cairo Essos and Schippie's Restaurant gained semifinal ratings by downing the Hyde Park Presidents, Arlington A. C. and the West Point All Stars.

The first team to taste the sting of defeat and elimination was the stubborn Hyde Park Presidents, who dropped a sizzling 26 to 24 decision to the Battery A five.

Another close battle was the outcome of the middle attraction when the Cairo Essos nipped Arlington by 25 to 21. And the final thriller brought the Schippie's Restaurant representatives out on the top end of a 28 to 21 count.

Led by the tournament's high scorer to date, Battery A just eked out a triumph over Hyde Park. Ed Snyder, who gleamed exactly 16 points last week in the first game, was halted somewhat last night, but nevertheless paced his club with eight points.

The soldiers, although pressed to the limit in the closing sessions by their passing held the upper-hand from the start.

Frank Swilpa Stars
Although underdogs in their skirmish with Arlington, the Cairo Essos found themselves without much trouble in the second game and won 25 to 21 on the starring work of Frankie Swilpa. Getting into the line-up in the third period Swilpa tossed in repeated shots to humble and bewilder the Arlington club. At the end of the first half the score was 15 to 11 in favor of Arlington.

Throughout the entire third can to Arlington was held scoreless by the enlightened and inspired Essos. Meanwhile the gasoline boys riddled the twine for seven markers. Tony Angelo pushed the calf-skin three times through in the final period. Barry Holder and Moffit were outstanding for the Cairo five on both defense and partly on offense.

Baltz's and Merchants Trim Their Opponents In Championship Series

Lewis and Storace Receive San Francisco Spotlight

San Francisco, April 12 (AP)—Seeking National A. A. U. titles, the highest prizes in amateur boxing, the cream of America's simonpure fighters open a three-day fistic carnival here today with 75 elimination matches scheduled for two rings.

Survivors of elimination tournaments in 60 cities, the youngsters will battle in opening rounds this afternoon and tonight, in quarter-finals tomorrow night and finals Friday night, when champions will be crowned in eight weight divisions.

Among the 182 entrants are three defending champions who won their laurels in Boston last year: Bradley Lewis, middleweight champion from Albany, N. Y.; Bill Speary, 118-pounder from Philadelphia, who was a titlist in 1937 as well, and Billy Eddy, 126-pound kingpin from Flint, Mich.

Praise has been heaped upon a number of challengers, among them Cozy Storace, welterweight, from Rome, N. Y.

In a furiously contested battle last night at the Municipal Auditorium the Baltz Pajamamen turned back the Barmann Brewers, 36-30, to chalk up the first victory in the series for National Division championship in the City Basketball League.

The Uptown Merchants routed the Boston Cleaners in the American Division title play-offs, 29-18, to take the lead in their series.

House Passes Bill In Favor of FHA

Provides for More Powers and Raising of Limit on Mortgages

Washington, April 12 (AP)—The House passed and sent to the Senate today a bill extending for two years the powers of the Federal Housing Administration and raising from $3,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000 the amount of mortgages it may insure.

The FHA, seeking to stimulate the flow of money into the construction industry and provide low cost home financing, insures loans by private institutions for home building and renovation. Unless Congress continues its power, they expire on June 30.

Before passing the bill on a voice vote, the House accepted an amendment by Representative Cochran (D., Mo.) designed to prevent what he said was the writing up of land values by promoters of large apartment projects.

The Senate finance committee, meanwhile, gave speedy approval to an increase from $49,000,000 to $80,000,000 in authorized federal expenditures to pay state administrative costs for unemployment compensation.

Senatorial Agreement

President Roosevelt's warm endorsement of a declaration that "free nations" of the world should make a deliberate show of strength to prevent war coincided today with evidences of senatorial agreement on temporary neutrality legislation.

Opposing senate forces, which long have disputed whether neutrality legislation attained its end or actually bred foreign troubles, seemed to be almost agreed on stop-gap re-enactment of the expiring "cash and carry" clause of the present neutrality act.

Mr. Roosevelt said yesterday that an editorial in the Washington Post (independent) was good, clear and honest in saying, among other things, that "nothing less than a show of preponderant force" would impress Italy and Germany in their ambitious efforts to expand.

"The editorial, with emphasis on 'panic legislation' designed to keep America isolated, said:

"Most Americans realize today that the sweep of events has now brought Europe to the very verge of war. What is insufficiently realized is the tremendous implications of the impending catastrophe for every citizen of this country."

Jury Is Selected In Quarry Trial

P. J. Schreiber Case Opens in County Court; Callahan Firm Defendant

A jury was selected this morning in county court to hear the evidence in an action in negligence brought by Peter J. Schreiber, of South Rondout against the Callahan Road Improvement Co., Inc., operators of the stone quarry at Mingo Hollow in the town of Esopus. The box was filled shortly before noon and the case opened.

John W. DeWitt appears for the plaintiff and Andrew J. Cook for the defendant corporation.

Mr. Schreiber brings an action against the company to recover damages to his residence which he claims was caused through the negligent operation of the quarry and the setting off of excessive blasting operations at the quarry on the former Nitro Powder Company plant in Mingo Hollow.

The case has attracted wide attention because of the large number of claims which have been made by property owners in the lower section of this city and in the town of Esopus over the discharge of tons of dynamite at the quarry in blasting operations. The Schreiber case is the first one to make its appearance in court.

Several months ago a meeting was called at Port Jervis and complaints made to the town board of the town of Esopus by irate property owners, who claimed property damage and asked that the town board take some official steps to stop the explosion of large quantities of dynamite, which they alleged, were wrecking their homes.

Mr. Schreiber claims that by the explosion of excessive charges and through the negligent manner in which operations are conducted at the quarry along the Rondout creek that his house which is more than half a mile away has been damaged seriously.

In the removal of rock, tons of explosives are set off at one operation and complaints have been made by residents of the lower section of the city across the creek from the quarry. Some residents in the West Chester street section of the city, have complained to the police of the operations and many have been forced to leave their homes, they say, through fear of damage, during the explosion of the charges. Complaints of cracked walls and damaged furnishings have been filed.

The corporation defends the action on the grounds that the discharge of the explosive is necessary in the conduct of the business and that all due care is taken to prevent damage. It is denied that the work is carried on in a negligent manner. The corporation denied any responsibility through negligence.

days ago but the work is being greatly delayed by the unfavorable weather conditions.

Thomas Resigns; F.D.R. Accepts

Federal Judge Resignation Recognized by Letter

Washington, April 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas of Connecticut.

A presidential secretary announced that Thomas had resigned in a letter dated April 6 and that the President accepted the resignation, effective immediately, in a letter today.

Officials recalled that Thomas some time ago had been summoned as a witness in connection with the McKesson and Robbins Drug Company case.

Attorney General Murphy issued this statement: "It is well known that for a number of weeks the financial affairs of Judge Thomas, and his action in certain cases, have been under investigation by John T. Cahill, U. S. attorney for the southern district of New York, and a special grand jury. The nature of the evidence adduced has not been made public.

Due to a recent attack of illness, Judge Thomas is at present under the care of a physician. The resignation has made it unnecessary to give further consideration to the question of impeachment. The grand jury will continue its investigation."

Sargent to Try Endurance Trip

Huling's Barn Will Stage Ball as Send-Off

Plans have been made to hold an endurance flight show and ball on Monday evening, May 1, at Huling's Barn in the form of a good luck party for George Sargent, local orchestra leader and aviator, who will attempt to break the endurance flight record established last year at the state fair in Syracuse by remaining aloft in a Taylor cub plane for 200 hours.

Mr. Sargent plans to name the plane "Miss Kingston" and will fly over Ulster county and the eastern states dropping booklets boosting Kingston and Ulster county.

Low Temperatures Prevail in East

Mercury Drops Below 20 in Middle West

Chicago, April 12 (AP)—Abnormally low temperatures prevailed over most of the nation east of the Rocky Mountains today.

The coldest spots were Park Falls, Wis., Bemidji, Minn., and Aberdeen, S. D., each with eight above zero. The mercury dropped to the low 20s in northern Ohio and a blizzard whipped that section, including Cleveland.

Freezing temperatures extended as far south as the Texas Panhandle, also into northern Oklahoma, northern Arkansas and northwestern Tennessee.

In the east it was below freezing from Portland, Me., north and snow fell in Pittsburgh, Buffalo and northern New England.

New York city had a low of 38.

Chicago's minimum of 21 at 5 a. m. was seven degrees below the previous record for April 12, recorded in 1900.

Since yesterday there has been snow in Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, flurries in Chicago and northern Illinois and in the other Great Lakes states.

A 32-mile northwest wind bore down on the city off Lake Erie. An inch of swirling snow soon covered the ground.

Street car, bus and private motor car traffic was slowed down as main traffic arteries acquired a glaze of ice.

Farmer Is Killed While Felling Tree Tuesday

Osman L. Phinney, 41, a farmer of Freehold, Greene county, was instantly killed Tuesday afternoon when a tree he and Edwin Calvin were cutting down fell unexpectedly. The large tree struck Mr. Phinney, driving his body into the ground.

It took some time to remove the tree and get the body out of the ground. Dr. Curtis Lacy of Freehold found that Mr. Phinney had suffered a fractured skull and his back and both legs were broken.

year, and in the not too far distant future we may confidently look forward to a clean river."

Opposition by Mayor Heiselman to immediate commencement of construction of a disposal plant is based upon the additional financial burden it would place upon the city. The cost of such a project to Kingston, it has been estimated, would be at least $400,000. Two plants would be required for Kingston, with an annual cost of maintenance in the neighborhood of $12,000.

For similar financial reasons, Poughkeepsie, Beacon, Newburgh, Peekskill and other communities along the Hudson river have also voiced opposition to being forced to begin construction of sewage disposal plants.

Schirick to Hold Special Session

An adjourned regular special term of Supreme Court will be held Friday by Justice Harry E. Schirick and consequently the county court now in session will not convene Friday. Jurors not engaged on the case now on trial were excused by County Judge Frederick G. Traver until Monday at 2 o'clock.

The special term of Supreme Court was adjourned last Friday by Justice Schirick because of Good Friday. Matters set down for last Friday will be heard this week Friday.
